LAST WITNESS IS CALLED IN
MCKAY TRIALESCANABA OFFICIAL
DENIES PUSHING
LIQUOR BRANDS

BY ROBERTA APPLEGATE

Jackson, Feb. 5 (AP)—The prosecution's case in the Mc Kay liquor conspiracy trial was almost completed today, as John Bennett of Escanaba, Upper Peninsula division manager of the state liquor control commission, contradicted testimony of an earlier state witness.

Special Prosecutor Kim Sigler said he would call only one more witness, Miss Ida Patricia Andre, former commission hearing stenographer, Miss Andre and Bennett are among six persons Judge Simpson ordered Sigler to produce as witnesses.

Bennett declared on cross-examination that he never was asked to increase or hold back on distribution of certain brands of liquor, and that he never heard Charles M. Webber, former state distribution director, use the term "green light" and "red light" to designate distillers who should be favored or discriminated against.

Distribution Praised

Webber's testimony was that he directed Bennett to "hold up or push" certain orders and used the terms "green and red light" in discussing these directions.

The defendants are Frank D. Mc Kay, Grand Rapids Republican; William H. Mc Keighan, former Flint mayor; Fisher L. Layton, Flint politician and former liquor agent; and Charles and Earl J. Williams, former liquor agents.

They are accused of conspiring to corrupt the state liquor law between 1939 and 1940.

Bennett testified he had been "active in politics" during the two campaigns to elect the late Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald in 1934 and 1938 and he had been promised a political job by his county chairman. Bennett asserted Webber had devised a distribution system "which he told me was almost perfect, and he received many commitments from various distillers about the system."

Demass Won't Appear

Sigler asked Bennett "did the investigators tell you the people had certain proof and some of the proof was that Webber testified you received instructions from him concerning the pushing of liquor?"

Bennett declared the investigator "told me that the second time I was called before the grand jury."

Sigler also called four Grand Rapids and Grand Haven telephone operators to identify tell slips they had made out on long distance telephone calls between Mc Kay and Mc Keighan and Mc Kay and Fred C. Ehrmann of Grand Haven, former liquor commission secretary who testified as a prosecution witness under a grant of immunity.

Orrin A. Demass, former chairman of the state liquor commission when the judge also directed Sigler to call, is out of the state and is not expected to be a witness.

Stamford, Conn., Area
Picked As Permanent
United Nations Home

BY FLORA LEWIS

London, Feb. 5 (AP)—The Stamford-Greenwich-Westchester area of Connecticut and New York was approved today by the 13-member interim committee of the United Nations for the permanent home of the world peace agency despite the protests of Australia and some local residents.

The full general assembly is the final authority on choosing the site.

The recommendation will be considered tomorrow by the 51-member committee on headquarters.

Immediately after the closed session of the interim committee, which acted on the report of a site inspection committee, Col. W. R. Hodgson, delegate from Australia, said he would fight for San Francisco and would attempt to have the recommendation rejected by the larger committee.

Dr. Stoyan Gavrilovic of Yugoslavia, head of the site inspection committee, said at a news conference in which he announced the interim committee's action that committee members felt concern over the protests of residents in the New York-Connecticut border area and added:

"This was to be expected. It would have happened anywhere. There is no area which we visited from which I did not get similar letters of protest. But on Stamford I got many assurances that the United Nations would be welcome."

Gavrilovic said the committee recommended that as many as possible of the residents in the zone affected by the peace agency be allowed to remain in their homes with long leases from the United Nations.

He explained that there would be a central zone within the international area where the assembly, secretariat and other United Nations agencies would be housed.

Around that area, he continued, there will be a "buffer zone" under the United Nations to prevent encroachment by the growth of neighboring cities. The committee recommended that the residents of the "buffer zone" be allowed to remain there.

The proposed size of the zone is 40 to 50 square miles.

YUKON RESCUEBroken Vessel Has 357
Still Aboard; Waves
30 Feet High

Ketchikan, Alaska, Feb. 5 (AP)—One hundred thirty-nine persons had been removed late this afternoon from the wrecked liner Yukon, leaving an estimated 357 still aboard the broken, wave-lashed vessel which ran aground at midnight Sunday.

"The safe rescue of all persons still aboard the Yukon appears certain despite a North Pacific willow and seas running up to 20 to 30 feet high," said an announcement from Seventeenth Naval district headquarters at Kodiak, Alaska.

The Coast Guard relayed a report from the old lighthouse tender Cedar that it had taken 81 aboard from the stricken passenger ship. The Cedar took charge of rescue efforts when the Coast Guard cutter Onondaga, first to reach the scene, left for Seward with the 43 women and children it had taken off the vessel with power boats.

Three men were washed into the sea when the liner broke in two last night, its forward part remaining fast aground and the after section wallowing in the tumbling waves. Rescued by an Army tug and hospitalized at Seward, the men expressed belief 20 or 30 persons might be missing, but the rescue vessels messaged repeatedly there was "no known loss of life."

Six women were hospitalized, suffering from exposure, at Seward, where the Army had sent doctors, nurses, medicine, blankets and food by plane and train. All the rescued who reached Seward were wearing borrowed clothes.

How the Cedar made its rescue was not disclosed at once, but the vessel had reported it was attempting to rig a breeches buoy to the Yukon. Flight other vessels had reached the scene and were assisting.

Civil Service Back
On Peacetime Basis

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—President Truman ordered the civil service back on a peacetime basis today, forcing temporary, wartime workers to take examinations if they hope to hold their jobs.

The first list of positions for which examinations must be held will be released Monday, Civil Service Commissioner Arthur S. Flemming told newsmen.

Pending the examinations, temporary appointments will be made, giving first preference to disabled veterans, second to non-disabled veterans and third to displaced federal workers.

Those who pass the examinations for permanent civil service status will hold their jobs unless veterans, who receive an automatic ten-point addition to their scores, crowd the top of the lists.

Increase Ordered
In Price Of Sugar

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—An increase of "a little more" than a half cent a pound in the retail price of sugar will go into effect Feb. 10, the OPA announced today.

At the same time refinery prices for cane and beet sugar will go up a half cent a pound, while the price for raw cane sugar will be increased .455 of a cent a pound.

Reiterating a recent statement by Stabilization Director John C. Collett, OPA said the higher prices are necessary because of an increase in the cost of Cuban sugar.

STATE BONUS
FOR VETERANS
GETS SUPPORTCITY-AID PROPOSAL
FACES ROUGH
TREATMENT

Lansing, Feb. 5 (AP)—A bill for state aid to local governmental units plummeted into the special legislative session today but apparently faced rough treatment in the house ways and means committee.

Meanwhile, house signatures were sought for a joint resolution sponsored by Tracy M. Doll, Detroit Democrat, to put a veterans bonus proposal on the November 5 election ballot.

Doll's plan, proposed by the CIO, calls for a constitutional amendment to give every returning serviceman $15 for each month in the armed forces with a maximum of $500. It would be financed by a 20-year bond issue at 2 per cent interest. Doll estimated that $200,000,000 in bonds would be required. In his first day at Lansing he obtained 23 signatures, but he needs two-thirds of both chambers to pass it.

No Funds Available

Introduced by Representatives David E. Young of Saginaw and Andrew Bolt of Grand Rapids, both Republicans, the city-aid bill proposed an appropriation equal to one-sixth of sales tax revenues for distribution to cities, villages and townships on a per capita basis beginning July 1, 1946.

Ways and means committee members, to whom the measure was referred, were almost unanimous in declaring that state needs would require all the $27,600,000 estimated surplus in the current biennium and that no funds were left for the cities.

Chairman John Espie of Eagle declared that "the legislature's first consideration is for the schools, mental health, and other state institutions. When they are taken care of, I don't see how there will be any money left for the municipalities."

His sentiments were echoed by other committee members although Joseph J. Leszynski, Detroit Democrat, said that "the cities should get financial help if we can find money for them" and "I think the $27,600,000 is a conservative estimate. If there is a surplus over that, I think some arrangement should be worked out to give the cities a big part of the money."

Union Calls Work
Stoppage In Mexico

Mexico City, Feb. 5 (AP)—A nationwide work stoppage involving 1,250,000 members of the Mexican Labor Confederation (CTM) temporarily paralyzed the nation's industrial strength today.

A few traffic disorders, in which workers forced taxis to curbs and throttled street car service, were the only semblance of violence reported.

The idle period, lasting four hours in states and one hour in Mexico City, was featured by mass demonstrations which flaunted "anti-Fascist" banners and shouted support for the nation's constitution, adopted 29 years ago today.

GEORGE ARLISS

London, Feb. 5 (AP)—George Arliss, former star of the stage and motion pictures, died tonight at the age of 77.

Death followed an attack of bronchial trouble. His wife was with him in the Arliss' London home at the time.

Arliss had played dozens of roles—Shylock, Disraeli and Rothschild among them—both in England and the United States. He scored one of his greatest successes in "The Green Goddess."

BUTTER SUPPLY
TO STAY SHORTMilk Output Increase
May Show Results
By April 1

Lansing, Feb. 5 (AP)—State Director of Agriculture Charles Figy, predicting that the current butter shortage would continue at least until after April 1, declared today that the removal of ceiling prices on milk and butterfat would have no immediate effect on the butter market.

Figy reported that farmers have been selling more milk and less butterfat for butter production because of the attractive OPA price on whole milk.

"The lifting of the ceilings would mean more butter eventually but it will take time," he stated. "The scarcity of butter won't end until the milk production increases in the spring."

Because of the increase in the per capita milk consumption in the cities along with the influx of workers to the industrial areas, the total milk needs of Michigan cities is so high that even the stepped-up milk production doesn't leave any surplus to be made into butter, Figy explained. He said during the war Michigan farmers produced more milk than ever.

Figy declared that "if 25 per cent of the fluid milk in Michigan now could be diverted for the manufacture of butter, there would be enough butter—but there wouldn't be enough milk."

MOTORS TIEUP

Detroit, Feb. 5 (AP)—A summons to leaders of the CIO United Auto Workers to confer with CIO President Philip Murray in Washington Thursday coincided here today with a report of impending "national developments" in the wages and prices picture.

Special Federal Mediator James F. Dewey, of the General Motors strike, was the authority for the report of the "national developments" which he indicated would have a bearing on the ultimate settlement of the 77-day-old GM walkout which has idled 175,000 workers.

Dewey made his statement at a press conference following a union-GM negotiating session today and at the same time UAW headquarters announced that President R. J. Thomas and others of the UAW high officialdom had been called to meet Murray.

Both Sides Hopeful

Union sources gave no intimation of what the Thursday conference would mean, but it has been frequently reported in both union and corporation quarters here that a settlement of the GM dispute would hinge on peace in the steel strike.

That point received further support when Dewey told newsmen, in answering their questions, that the forthcoming "developments" would have some effect on the attitudes of both parties.

"That's one of them," Dewey said, in reply to a query whether the steel strike would be involved in the reported developments.

The federal mediator, while speaking guardedly of the situation in the east as it might affect the strike here and in other GM plants across the country said, "Personally, I think it will have some effect on the attitudes of both parties."

Two Couples Held
For Grand Rapids
Jewelry Robberies

Grand Rapids, Mich., Feb. 5 (AP)—Two couples arrested almost simultaneously today—one here and one in Muskegon—were questioned in connection with two jewelry store burglaries and other thefts and were detained by police for written statements Wednesday.

They were Alexander Gliva, 30, and Madeline Wisniewski, 29, both of Detroit, picked up by Grand Rapids police, and Alexander Sochowski, 31, and Mildred Nulf, 23, apprehended by Muskegon officers.

Muskegon police said Sochowski and Miss Nulf were wanted on warrants charging car theft last Oct. 16 and were being questioned in the burglary of two jewelry stores here Jan. 21.

Police who arrested the two after a chase said their car was stolen and ran into a ditch.

Another car in which Gliva and Miss Wisniewski were riding was halted by Patrolman George Bolt-house, who said the two were carrying four guns between them. Acting Inspector Frank Sullivan said a paper bag filled with rings and a small match box containing several diamonds were found in Miss Wisniewski's purse.

Food Pinch Hits
England Harder
Than During War

London, Feb. 5 (AP)—The British government today put Britain's bread formula back where it was in the worst days of the U-boat warfare during the war, and announced there would be less bacon, poultry and eggs.

Sir Ben Smith, food minister, said in Commons that the world wheat supplies were more than 5,000,000 tons short of requirements and that Britain had no reserve. Then he told Britons this bad news.

Unless wheat consumption in Great Britain is decreased, it might be necessary to ration bread.

Bread will be darker because flour must be made to include more bran in it.

Resulting human consumption of cereals will cut supplies of livestock feed and will mean less bacon, poultry and eggs.

Consumption of fats must be reduced one-eighth by lopping an ounce off every Briton's weekly ration of lard.

Bread will be served to cafe patrons only on their request.

Government Takes
Over Strikebound
Tugboat Companies

New York, Feb. 6 (Wednesday) (AP)—The Federal Office of Defense Transportation took over the strike-bound tugboat industry in New York harbor at 12:01 a. m. today.

The seizure was ordered last night by President Truman after virtually all traffic in the harbor had been halted for two days in a controversy over wages and hours by 3,500 workers employed by members of the New York tugboat exchange.

The strikers, members of Local 333, United Marine Division, International Longshoremen Association, AFL, however, were under orders of their leaders not to go back to work before an emergency meeting called by the union last night for 10 a. m. today to consider the president's seizure order.

Lawrence C. Turner, director of the waterways transport department of the ODT, took over as federal manager of the properties at the direction of ODT Director Col. James Monroe Johnson.

An announcement from the ODT said it was "authorized by the executive order to call upon the Army and the Navy to furnish any protection, equipment or manpower necessary to accomplish the purposes of the order."

"Director Johnson," the announcement said, today sent a telegram to each of the companies whose properties have been taken over asking them to resume normal operations and he similarly requested the striking tugboat workers to report immediately for their regular assigned duties."

The strike began early yesterday in a dispute over wages and hours and tonight there were 433 vessels in port, 367 of them war shipping administration ships.

Only eight of 22 American flagships which entered the harbor were able to dock today. Five of them were troopships brought in by Army tugboats. The others were freighters and docked without aid of tugboats, the WSA said.

President Truman used his war powers in ordering seizure of the companies. The order directed government management under the same conditions and terms of employment in effect at the time of seizure, which meant no increase in wages or lessening of hours unless ordered by some agency dealing with those matters.

It was said the city gets 80 per cent of its food and fuel by boat and that continuation of the strike would result in hunger, cold, and disruption of the transportation system because of the lack of coal in the electricity plants.

MERGER OF PM

Statute Revision Sought
To Bring Good Railway
Line To Michigan

Detroit, Feb. 5 (AP)—Governor Kelly's proposal to merge the Pere Marquette and Chesapeake & Ohio railroads would improve rail service in Michigan and stabilize employment by "bringing a good railroad into the state," according to John C. Shields, general for the Pere Marquette Railway Company.

In his message yesterday to the special session of the legislature, Governor Kelly asked the lawmakers to amend the corporate setup in Michigan so that the Chesapeake & Ohio, which has controlled the Pere Marquette since 1929, could be merged with the Michigan line.

Shields said most improvements in Pere Marquette service since 1929 have resulted from C&O control, and future plans under the present organization include operation of a Diesel-powered streamliner on the Detroit-Grand Rapids run.

Shields declared a merger would link up railways extending from the Chesapeake Bay on the eastern seaboard to Ludington, which he described as "the gateway to the northwest" because of the Pere Marquette ferry fleet which bridges Lake Michigan.

Democrat Heads
State Commission

Lansing, Feb. 5 (AP)—The Senate in open session today confirmed the appointment of J. Neal Lamoreaux, of Comstock Park, as a member of the new state agricultural commission. Lamoreaux, a Democrat, was chosen chairman of the commission to the irritation of some Republican legislators, but no objections to his confirmation were voiced in the Senate.

PLAN DRAFTED

TRUMAN; DETAILS
EXPECTED TODAY

BY STERLING F. GREEN

Washington, Feb. 5. (AP)—Federal officials said tonight the White House was aiming at an announcement of a revised price-and-wage policy tomorrow but that "some differences of opinion" developed late today.

These informants, who are apparently in a position to know but who cannot be identified, said a statement existed in draft form tonight, calling for new price concessions to permit higher wages. But the snags which developed in official conferences may delay its issuance.

Think They'll Settle

It still is planned, however, to follow up the statement, either immediately or a day or two later, with announcement of a steel price increase by which the government hopes to end the strike of 750,000 CIO steel workers.

There was no comment from President Truman. The nature of the "differences of opinion" was not divulged, save that they reflected new conflict in the views of Price Administrator Bowles and Reconstruction Director Snyder, who had earlier reached substantial agreement on the basic idea of an across-the-board change which would apply to other industries as well as steel.

"The government will put all its chips down," he said. "The steel industry will know exactly where the government stands. I think they will settle."

Seizure At Midnight

These other labor developments came late in the day:

1. President Truman ordered seizure at midnight of 91 strike-bound tugboat companies in New York harbor, by the Office of Defense Transportation. The government asked the firms and the 3,500 striking AFL Marine workers to resume operations and free the big port.

2. The CIO's three-union "strategy committee" was called into session here Thursday by President Philip Murray. It includes the leaders of the CIO's biggest units now in strike—the United Steel Workers, United Electrical Workers and United Automobile Workers.

3. President John Green of the CIO Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers announced he would recommend a strike vote in the nation's shipyards if employers maintain what he called a "sit-down" against a wage settlement.

High Command Confers

Meetings of key officials were held at both the White House and Labor Department during the day. John Steelman, presidential assistant and labor trouble-shooter, conferred with Secretary of Labor Shellenbach, while the economic high command—OPA Administrator Chester Bowles, Stabilization Administrator John C. Collett, and Reconstruction Director John W. Snyder—met in the executive offices.

The latter meeting was described as an effort at final reconciliation of the views of Snyder, Bowles and Collett, on the basis of a drafted wage-price revision prepared by OPA at Mr. Truman's request.

From several sources came indications that the group is now fairly united in support of Bowles' (Continued on Page Two)

STRIKE CONTROL BILL WINS TEST

Attempts To Modify New Measure In House Shouted Down

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—Supporters of a broad new strike control bill won a series of test votes today in the House.

They shouted down by overwhelming majorities assorted attempts to modify the measure offered by Representative Case (R-S.D.).

One vote was on an amendment by Representative Patterson (D-Calif.) to strike from the Case bill a section giving courts the power of injunction to prevent violence on picketing line.

The Landis amendment would have deleted a section making illegal any concerted refusal to handle goods in order to make an employer come to terms.

But the Case bill proponents said the boycott prohibition is needed to halt jurisdictional disputes. They said many unions use the boycott to force management to deal with them, instead of some other union.

Soviet And British Fight Over Troops In Greece Unsettled

BY JOHN A. PARRIS

London, Feb. 5 (AP)—The United Nations Security Council adjourned suddenly tonight after failing to settle the dispute between Russia and Britain over Greece, but French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault said later "we are very close" to a solution.

The 11-member council adjourned until 9 p. m. (4 p. m. EST) tomorrow after representatives of the United States, France, Russia, Britain and China, in a two-hour secret session, were unable to resolve in a manner agreeable to both Britain and Russia a Soviet charge that British troops in Greece were menacing world peace.

N. J. O. Makin of Australia, council president, who sat in on the Big Five conference, proposed the adjournment. He gave no explanation for the move which was approved without objection.

He proposed that the council end the British-Russian argument, which has at times been hot and furious, without a formal ruling, but with a statement that British troops in Greece do not menace world peace.

British War Brides Arrive In Michigan

Detroit, Feb. 5 (AP)—Eighteen British war brides, some of them with children their ex-GI husbands had never seen, today were getting acquainted with their in-laws following their late arrival this morning at Detroit's Union station.

The homecoming for some of the brides was confused, not only because their train was two hours behind time, but also because icy driving conditions made it impossible for their husbands to meet them.

Also, their arrival at Detroit was clouded by a heavy fog and drizzle, but this was banished by the greeting most of the women received from their grinning husbands.

With two exceptions, all of the brides are going to live with their husbands' parents because of the housing shortage.

The late arrival of the train from New York caused a number of the brides to miss upstate train connections, but Col. W. H. McCarty, deputy chief of Michigan affairs for the 6th Service Command, said transportation would be arranged for them.

Russian-Sponsored Romanian Regime Is Recognized By U. S.

BY GRAHAM HOVEY

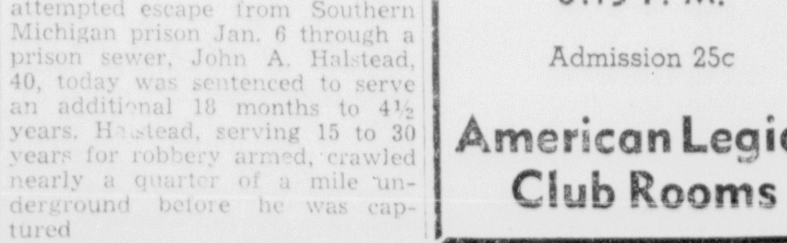

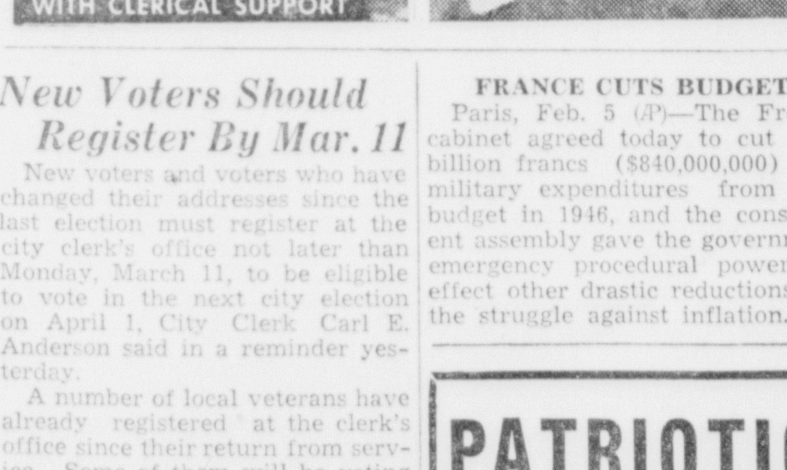

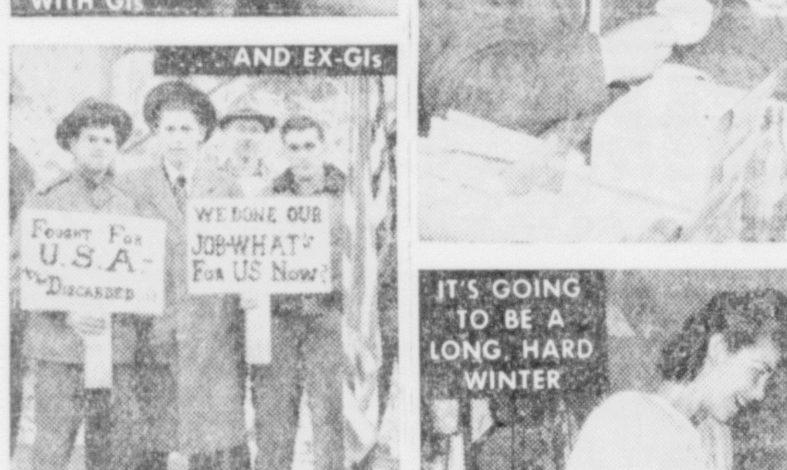

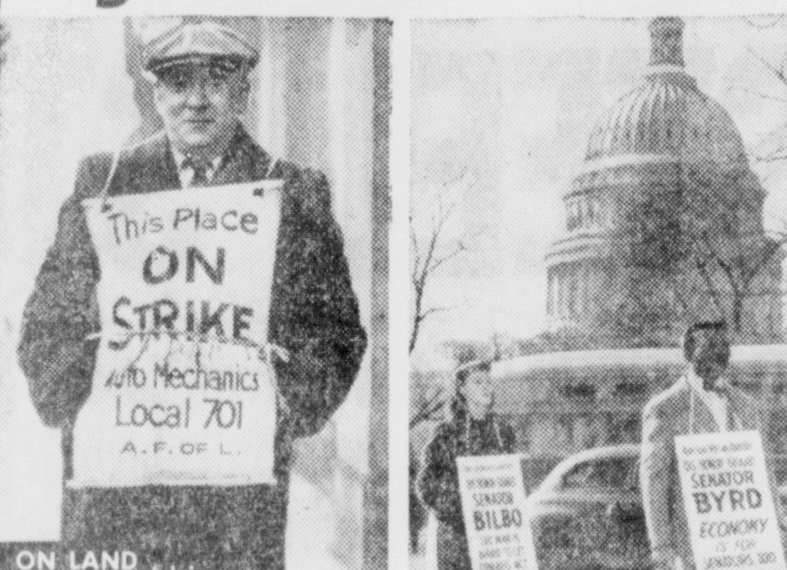

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—The United States tonight announced recognition of the Soviet-sponsored Romanian government of Premier Petru Groza.

Britain also recognized the Groza regime, which was broadened recently under terms of the Moscow communiqué of big three foreign ministers.

The British-American action brought the big three nations into a common diplomatic policy on all former German satellite countries except Bulgaria. Britain and the U. S. never have recognized the Sofia government of Premier King George II.

U. S. recognition of Romania was announced in a statement issued by the state department hours after the news was made public in Bucharest. The statement included a note delivered yesterday to the Romanian council of ministers by Burton Y. Berry, U. S. political representative in Bucharest.

Oil Man Pauley Made Raw Offer, Ickes Declares

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—Secretary Ickes testified today that Edwin W. Pauley made him the "rawest" proposition on oil and campaign funds that Ickes ever received in his life.

Moreover, Ickes said, Pauley "had the hardihood" to bring up the subject of tidelands oil on a special train returning from President Roosevelt's funeral at Hyde Park.

This testimony by President Truman's secretary of the interior concerning President Truman's nominee for undersecretary of the navy created a sensation before the Senate naval committee.

Pauley, California oil man, arose immediately from a seat behind Ickes to reiterate that Ickes was "mistaken"—that he never said he could raise $300,000 in campaign contributions from California oil men if they could be assured the federal government would not press a suit claiming title to submerged offshore oil lands.

Sugar Beet Payment Of 1945 Sets Record

The 1945 crop of sugar beets netted farmers in the area served by the Superior Sugar Refining company approximately $750,000, General Manager August Ludwig said today in reporting that Superior, in conjunction with the Commodity Credit Corporation, had completed its farmers.

In addition to these payments beet growers will get approximately $200,000 from the federal government in subsidy payments under the 1937 sugar act.

Ludwig said the 1945 payments constituted the largest amount ever paid for one crop year. Superior's best growing territory includes part of Delta and Menominee counties in the upper peninsula and the eastern tier of Wisconsin counties extending south as far as Kenosha and Racine counties and as far west as Waupun.

Because of an anticipated shortage of sugar in 1946, Agricultural Secretary Clinton P. Anderson has issued an appeal to farmers of the nation to plant larger acreage of sugar beets this year.

position—that a general revision of the wage-price code be written which would permit a modest upturn in prices but would be adaptable to future disputes in any industry as well as to the immediate deadlock in steel.

Meanwhile the next step toward settlement of the meat packing wage dispute, involving 263,000 CIO and AFL workers in packing houses seized and run by the government, was being held up.

The fact-finding board headed by Edward W. Witte was due to file its wage recommendations and findings yesterday, but officials said today it will not come until later in the week.

It is said that Queen Elizabeth started the day by reading the New Testament in Greek and went on to Greek orations and tragedies.

Union headquarters said that in addition to President Thomas, the Murray conference summons also went to Vice Presidents Walter P. Reuther and Richard Frankenstein and Secretary-Treasurer George F. Addes.

Contract Problems Cleared
As he came out of his fifth negotiating session between the UAW and GM, Dewey remarked, "another session or two" probably would clear up certain company security and kindred problems in the present contract negotiations. Wages have not yet been formally discussed in the meeting.

Dewey added, "by that time there may be some national developments" which he said would permit the parties to come to understandings on their major subjects of dispute, including wages.

The General Motors negotiations will be resumed Wednesday, although Reuther, head of the UAW's GM department, will be absent. The union said he was booked to speak tomorrow before union groups in Tarrytown, N. Y., and Bristol, Conn.

The UAW and Hudson Motor company held a second negotiating session today, but gave out no details of the meeting. The union's contract demands have not been made public.

Site For Detroit Airport In Canada Favored By Kelly

Lansing, Feb. 5 (AP)—Governor Kelly today gave state support to a proposal that Detroit construct a large municipal airport near Windsor on Canadian soil.

He telegraphed the special airport committee of the Detroit common council that Bruce Anderson of Lansing, member of the state aeronautics commission, and possibly Col. Floyd E. Evans, commission director, would accompany the committee Wednesday to Ottawa to confer with Dominion officials on the proposal.

Kelly said "I see no reason, if that is the proper place, to hesitate because the site is not on Michigan soil."

The first regular night airmail service was inaugurated in 1924.

Election Law Moves Up State Primaries

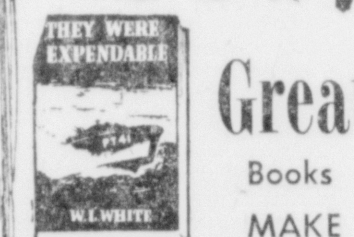

Lansing, Feb. 5 (AP)—Under the provisions of the Michigan election law amendment setting the 1946 primaries for July 9 introduced at the special legislative session yesterday, state political conventions must be called on or before May 9 and must be held no later than July 30.

The county convention must be no later than July 18 with May 24 as the deadline for the call from county committees. Certificates of nomination must be filed by Aug. 1 or not less than 95 days prior to the general election Nov. 5, and Aug. 15 is the final date on which candidates to fill a vacancy may be selected.

Candidates for governor and lieutenant governor are named in the primary elections; nominations for all other state elective offices are made by the party conventions after the primaries.

STATE BONUS FOR VETERANS GETS SUPPORT

Mayors president and leading figure in the cities' fight for a share of sales tax monies, is slated to appear before legislative committees Thursday to argue the merits of the proposal.

The one-sixth plea is backed by the Michigan State Supervisors' association, of which Young is a past president, and the bill's supporters hoped for the formation of a strong urban-rural bloc to force it to action on the house floor.

A constitutional provision appeared to have blocked enactment of the administration's harbors-of-refuge bill which provided for the creation of a state waterways commission with an appropriation of $500,000 and power to levy a gallonage tax on small vessel fuel. The proceeds would go toward the state's share of a federal $2,000,000 program for building 15 small boat harbors along the Great Lakes.

Lt. Gov. Vernon J. Brown asserted an amendment to the constitution adopted last spring by the voters to permit state money to be spent on lake, stream and drain improvements still did not legalize the proposal. Asserting the bill was important, Governor Kelly urged legislative attorneys to seek a way around the bar.

The senate scheduled a Republican caucus tomorrow to decide whether the majority group will support six members of the finance committee who voted to appropriate funds for only the current fiscal year.

Snowmobile Tested At Soo Begins Trip To Canadian Arctic

Grand Rapids, Feb. 5 (AP)—George W. Bettes, of Sparta, and Lt. Jack Bursey, of Grand Rapids, a Coast Guard officer, are on their way to the far north where they expect to join a Canadian army expedition to test Bettes' personally-developed "snowmobile."

Lt. Bursey is a veteran of two Byrd Antarctic expeditions. Bettes' "snowmobile" has been tested in U. S. Army maneuvers at Ft. Brady, Sault Ste. Marie, and he will offer it for trial to the Canadian army which plans an exploration of the Hudson Bay region.

The "snowmobile" makes use of tractor-type treads with metal blades providing traction. Bettes left in an automobile, hauling the "snowmobile" on a trailer.

When he reaches a point where he cannot drive, he said he will finish the trip in the "snowmobile."

Snowball Throwers Warned By Police

Careless youngsters may have some windows to pay for and there may be extra punishment in the bargain for them, police officers warned yesterday, following an epidemic of smashed window panes broken by snowball throwers.

Iceicles dangling from house roofs may look tempting but are a dangerous target, youngsters are reminded.

Several south side residents reported expensive windows broken by students on the way to and from school.

RURAL LIVING MEET FEB. 12

Conference To Be Held
At Rapid River
School

C. P. Titus, Delta county commissioner of schools, announced yesterday a "Rural Family Living Conference" will be held at Rapid River on Feb. 12. This conference is one of a series now being held in Michigan.

The Rapid River conference will touch on such subjects as Religious Life; Land Use, Economic Foundation and Conservation; Educational Opportunities; Home and Family Relations; Rural Urban Public Relations; Recreation and Youth Activities; Healthful Living; Community Services.

Among those speaking at the conference will be Dr. Charles Loomis, sociologist, Michigan State College East Lansing; Dr. H. A. Tape, president, Northern Michigan College of Education, Marquette; Dr. Loomis will summarize the day's discussion at a group meeting from 4 to 4:30 in the afternoon.

This conference is the result of planning by delegates who attended the Michigan conference at Grand Rapids in January of 1945. The delegates to that conference arrived at the conclusion that if there is to be improvement in all areas of rural living, action must begin where people live.

The first of such conferences on Rural and Family Living was held in the East Room of the White House in October, 1944. There were 280 delegates present of which 17 were from Michigan.

Among the well-known persons appearing there were Kate V. Wofford, director of Rural Education, State Teachers College, Buffalo, N. Y. (she is author of several books, one of which is "Modern Education in the Small Rural School"); Murray D. Lincoln, president of the Cooperative League of the United States and secretary of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation; Fannie Dunn, professor emerita, Teachers College, Columbia University; and Julian E. Butterworth of Cornell University.

Sessions will be held in the Rapid River high school building.

Monoxide Poison

FIVE persons were killed of carbon monoxide fumes in Kentucky Monday while comfortably seated in a stalled automobile in which the motor was kept running to provide heat for the occupants.
It was most unfortunate that it requires tragedies of this kind to impress upon the motoring public the necessity for observing simple rules of caution. The first of these rules is to never keep a motor running in an automobile that is not in motion. Even an exhaust system in best working condition is no guarantee of adequate protection against the lethal fumes of carbon monoxide when the automobile is idle. The fumes are odorless and colorless and the victims inevitably succumb without ever realizing their danger.

Stalling in snowdrifts is particularly dangerous if the motorist elects to keep his engine running to provide heat for occupants of the vehicle. It is a safety rule that is very important in this north country, where the danger of being snowbound exists in every winter storm.

Protection of Liberties

DEMAGOGUERY received a neat punch in the nose Monday when the U. S. supreme court unanimously ruled that the postmaster general lacks the right to bar Esquire magazines from a second class mailing privilege just because the postmaster general disliked some of the art material in the magazine.

The supreme court's decision in this case was no surprise. It has been apparent for some time that if the principles of American freedom are to be protected by judicial authorities, the former postmaster general, Frank C. Walker, was certain to be on the losing end of this argument.

The critical point in this case was not whether Esquire is a good magazine for the public, but whether the postmaster general possesses the right to bar from the mails any publication in which he may take a personal dislike. If the postmaster general were sustained in this claim to authority, it would be an opening wedge for power-minded demagogues to bar any publications which was not in sympathy with the administration viewpoint. The main safeguard of public interest in our system of democracy, the freedom of speech and press, would be lost.

The unanimous decision of the supreme court should serve as a reminder to any other public officials who act to take upon themselves privileges which are diametrically opposed to the public interest.

Yamashita to Die

GENERAL Yamashita has lost his appeal to the United States supreme court to halt his execution for wartime barbarities, but nevertheless the entire proceedings have been a victory for American justice.

To the Oriental mind, it must have seemed strange that we should go to so much trouble to give a fair trial to a Japanese war criminal. When the Japanese were in temporary control of the Pacific, they treated captured American soldiers with the grossest indignation. Some captives were bayoneted and murdered.

But we have proceeded with the trial of war criminals with controlled emotions. Even Yamashita, whose troops committed all sorts of crimes during the Japanese occupation of the Philippines, is given the full benefit of our courts of justice.

The supreme court has upheld the verdict of the military court. But Yamashita was given a fair trial.

People, Ships and Fish

IN addition to the larger aspects, military and scientific, of the United States atomic bomb experiments in mid-Pacific, will be matters involving personality and sentimentality.

In the first place, what is to be the fate of the peacetime natives of the Marshall Islands, where the man-made earthquake is to be tested? The 161 living on Bikini atoll, whose spacious lagoon is to accommodate the guinea pig fleet, will be evacuated permanently. Inhabitants of other islands, as far as 200 miles away, are to be removed temporarily. Fish and wild life of the whole area face utter destruction, but they are described by the United States Fish and Wildlife Service as only "of local importance."

Are animals to be placed on the target vessels to determine the bomb's effect on "crews?" No decision has been made. But in the past when the armed services proposed using goats as "goats" to test their new weapons, a loud outcry arose from humane societies. Congressmen are to be moved to the tests. Their acceptance no doubt, will be in direct ratio to the distance of their seats from the scene of action.

Nobody cares about how many Jan or German warships are destroyed, but there will be regret that some of Uncle Sam's famous old men-of-war also are earmarked for possible disintegration. But their final sacrifice, if it is really to be, will be in the service of their country. The Navy needs them now to determine the effect of the atomic bomb on future ship design and on the whole concept of warfare.

Better to carry on to a glorious end in the tradition of the Navy than to rot and rust for years in the mudbanks where proud ships die.

Anti-Flu Shots

THE influenza-suffering general public will welcome the announcement of the Army Surgeon General that the Army's new anti-flu shots are producing encouraging results.

With vaccine made from killed viruses of influenza "A" and "B," the two most common types, the service doctors began vaccinating 7,000,000 men early in the fall. The new material reduced the incidence of flu by approximately 75 per cent among those vaccinated with it, as compared to unvaccinated persons.

The country is just now recovering from another flu wave. There seems to be an annual occurrence, with the peak a few weeks after Christmas. Many lives are lost in these epidemics, to say nothing of the suffering and the loss to workers and employers.

If the Army Medical Corps has produced something that will prevent flu, even in a sizable percentage of cases, it should be made available as quickly as possible through civilian medical channels.

What Goes On?

ESCANABA, Milwaukee and many other communities appear to be experiencing a wave of vandalism, nowadays. Street lights are smashed, park benches are chopped up or carried away, and in many other ways private property is damaged or destroyed.

No building can be left in state parks with any assurance that it will not be molested. The destruction caused in some Wisconsin areas, for instance, has been considerable.

It is too much to expect that the police can be in every place where vandals are active. Young people must be taught to respect private and public property, and the same kind of education might be given to some senseless adults.

Other Editorial Comments

(Milwaukee Journal)

The Sheboygan Press and the Oshkosh Northwestern were right when they recently complained that this state is not getting enough scheduled intra-state air lines.

The people of both the larger and smaller Wisconsin cities will want to fly to major transfer points, the nearest of which—to most of them—is Milwaukee. There they can get connections that will put them on the nation's airways. They want also to make purely intrastate trips, especially between home and the state's metropolis.

Now all of the Fox River valley people, those of the Lake Michigan shore cities, and most others, must get to Milwaukee by rail even though they prefer air travel.

There are plenty of applications now filed with the civil aeronautics board at Washington for intrastate lines. But the board, which should be interested, and perhaps it, does not seem able to give these applications attention except after long delays.

There are charter plane services in many cities having airports, which could meet some of the needs. These are not as fully used as they might be. Nevertheless, scheduled intrastate service into Milwaukee ought to be fostered. Milwaukee, incidentally, may get additional interstate air lines in the near future.

But one condition must not be lost sight of. The major air lines haven't enough planes, though they are getting them as rapidly as they are made available, to establish and fly comparatively short intrastate distances.

This condition will be corrected in time. Wisconsin communities should continue to press for intrastate service as vigorously as they can—or for regional service, even though it might cross the boundaries of Minnesota and upper Michigan. This would help give the people an aviation network that would meet the needs of the smaller cities.

TRITE EXPRESSIONS

(Scrapbook Item)

Trite expressions are described in one of my books as, "the mummies of words and expressions, once vital and vigorous, which have died of exhaustion." Another good name for them is clichés, pronounced: klee-SHAZZ.

Cliche is a French loan-word which means literally, "a stereotype plate," a photographic negative," hence, by extension, anything turned out monotonously in large quantities; therefore, words and expressions that become backneyed and worn-out by overuse.

World Events Analyzed

By MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington—In this season of influenza and virus pneumonia, the shortage of doctors needs no statistical proof. It is a grim reality that bears down on patients and overworked doctors.

But the estimates show that the scarcity is certain to be worse in coming years. This means a decline in health standards, a decline in the well-being of the nation.

Figures furnished me by Dr. Harold Diehl of the University of Minnesota Medical School put the number of premedical students available for entrance into the country's medical schools in 1948 at 2000. This is one-third of the normal freshman enrollment in medicine. The estimate for 1947 is 2500 students.

Last year I wrote several columns on what this threatened shortage of doctors meant to the nation. I put the blame on selective service for its refusal, then and now, to defer premedical students. This refusal, in the face of pleas from medical authorities all over the country, cut off the future supply of medical students at the source.

—APPLICANTS REJECTED—

In response to my columns came many letters which told another story. They were from students, or potential students, who had been rejected by medical schools because of their racial origin or their religion. While they were, for the most part, of Jewish origin, there were also Italians and Catholics who told the same story.

Some were 4-F's. Some had received medical discharges after combat wounds. Many had applied to school after school, only to have their applications ignored or to be told the class was filled.

They were under no illusions as to why this had happened. They cited the quota system which most medical schools apply, although no dean will ever admit such a quota system exists.

In New York, the mayor's committee on unity, headed by Charles Evans Hughes, Jr., has documented this un-American discrimination. The committee confirms that a quota system for Catholic, Jewish and negro students has been established in the nation's leading educational institutions. It is particularly bad, according to the committee report, in medicine. And in the last decade, conditions have rapidly grown worse.

There is no greater threat to a strong, Democratic America than this shadow of the Ghetto imposed on American institutions. It is contrary to the deepest traditions of a nation that has grown great through the talents and skills and strengths of people of every race and creed.

—INFERIORITY COMPLEX—

To fear competition, to restrict it by quotas, is to confess an inferiority complex that has pathological overtones. The anonymous letters that bubble with scurrility and hate sometimes boast of the writer's early American origin. That is such a childish contradiction of our heritage of freedom. Some of us, it happens, had ancestors who came to America in the 17th century. But I cannot believe their motives were very different from the immigrants who came twenty years ago.

If the lesson of America has been forgotten, what happened in the war just ended should have served to remind us that knowledge and greatness cannot be confined by race and creed. Hitler and Fascism drove out of Europe some of Europe's greatest scientists.

Enrico of Italy, Niels Bohr of Denmark and many others came here to work on the atom bomb. We speak of the discovery of atomic fission as an American triumph. In reality, it was an international achievement—the achievement of peoples of every race working in free America.

One of the European scientists who contributed to the early development of atomic fission has just come here to Washington. Because of her race, Lise Meitner was driven out of Germany. She took refuge in Sweden, where she contributed her thought to the pool of the world's knowledge. Now Catholic University has invited her here to lecture on nuclear physics.

In the brain of a medical student barred from our colleges by his race may be the searching genius that could free mankind from one of the ancient scourges at our own peril, we deny these Americans the right to know and to study.

We all are acquainted with the girl who has but two adjectives to her name: "grand" and "loathsome." Everything in life is one or the other—her boy friend, her new dress, the dance last night, Van Johnson's latest movie, these are "grand." On the other hand, she describes as "loathsome" the flirty blond at the office, slush-covered sidewalks, musical commercials (perhaps she's right there), and the head cold she feels coming on.

One should strike the happy medium between the "grand-loathsome" inarticulateness and the "elegant" manner of "talking like the dictionary." But above all else, we should examine our vocabularies for clichés, and see to it that they are laid away in decent burial.

THE ANSWERS — About one week ago this column presented a letter from "Just a Kid" which offered at least one portion of the opinion of Escanaba's teenagers on the question of dancing and dances for juveniles. It was the opinion of "Just a Kid" that the youngsters should have a "dry night club" where dancing could be enjoyed in an atmosphere of muted lights and the congenial proximity of booths. School dances, wrote "Just a Kid," don't have this atmosphere.

Dunathan

Because the letter raised questions which should be of interest to all parents of teen-agers, letters in answer to "Just a Kid" were invited from column readers 40 years of age or over. This age group (it could be presumed) would be parents of teen-age children. A number of letters have been received. All but one are from mothers, which may indicate something or nothing.

Some of the letters in the first group received are as follows:
DEAR "JUST A KID":

In answer to your letter that appeared in our daily paper this past week, I find that my ideas of entertainment for High school children differ greatly from yours.

I am a parent of a High school student and the opinion I have gathered from the contents of your letter is that your ideas are too far advanced for a child of your age. Remember you have a long time to be old, but you are only young once.

I believe youth does need recreation, and dancing is a lot of fun, but certainly you don't need the "nightclub atmosphere" to make your entertainment complete. Your Senior high school has lovely dances, and with the co-operation of the students these dances should be a big success.

The lights are soft and the music is certainly as good as at the (name of local nightclub deleted). Perhaps some transcribed music could be furnished if you prefer.

Why are dances necessary to make your dancing evening complete? Of course, I blame the parent most every time, and I believe they are neglecting their duty when they allow their young teenagers to be running to public dances, especially their daughters. Maybe their young son or daughter doesn't touch an alcoholic drink, but they see and hear too much for their own good.

Maybe I am old-fashioned in your eyes but from experience, and experience is the best teacher, I can see that these old-fashioned mothers of a generation ago were pretty smart in raising their families.

I'm leaving with the thought and hope of a better world.
An Interested Parent.

DEAR BUGLER:
Can I join the letter writing contest for a better community, although I am not yet forty? I have a boy of fifteen and I am interested in the young peoples' problems.

I approve of the suggestion of "Just a Kid." After all, they know what they enjoy. If grownups would place themselves in the position of the teen-agers, they'd realize there is nothing for teen-agers but shows, with the exception of skating and skiing in winter.

Here is an opportunity for some one to make money, as there always will be teen-agers. So, "Just

Just a Mother.

DEAR BUGLER:

It seems to me that a place the size of Escanaba, could support a place such as "Just a Kid" described.

Here in Trenary there are two taverns open in winter and when there was talk of turning the minors out, the kids were sunk. I don't as a rule, go to those places, but my husband sells tickets at Herb's Place on dance nights and sometimes I go too. I have watched the young folks and it's just as they say—it's booths, mirrors, low lights, music and a chance to dance as they feel like it.

As things are, they do make it hard for their parents and the tavern owners and it's not so pleasant for themselves, either. For they are scared of being put out, or embarrassed by being asked how old they are.

Most kids won't ask for beer or liquor. Those that would ask wouldn't want a place such as "Just a Kid" asks for. Marquette has a place almost, if not like the kids describe. It is orderly, and I understand he has high school and college students working there. Although he sometimes has to "step on them" they like it and respect him for it.

I wish my husband and I could start a place here for the young folks. We like young folks, get along well with them as we have three of our own and understand their need of a place to go. Here's hoping some one comes to the rescue soon.

Mrs. Gerrie Ellis,
Trenary, Michigan.
(Other letters will be presented c. this subject from time to time as they are received. Letters should be not more than 300 words, be written by persons over 40, and must be signed, although the name will not be used if that is requested.)

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—Dozens of G. I. investigators have been working since the shooting war stopped to help win another war. This is a war against international big business, which recognized no national boundaries, which used countries only as market divisions for its products, and which at one time aided Hitler, Mussolini and Hirohito just as much as it did France and England.

What the G. I. investigators have uncovered in Germany is a tribute to Nazi thoroughness and to the gullibility of American big business. For what it amounts to is a world plan by which Germany expanded its industrial capacity for war while simultaneously curbing the industrial capacity of this country and other potential enemies.

And the names of the same men who have been dicker with Truman over steel—Ben Fairless, Eugene Grace, et al.—have turned up in European files as a part of the Cartel which unwittingly played in the hands of the Nazis. It is a story which the leaders of the steel industry would like to forget. But the justice department hasn't forgotten it.

American participation in the steel Cartel was decided upon as late as 1937—when there was no longer any doubt regarding Hitler's warlike intentions. By that time he had already invaded the Rhineland, showed his hand by sending arms to Franco, and boasted openly in speech after speech that Germany would dominate Europe.

The steel Cartel files, seized in Luxembourg, reveal that S. M. Bash of Bethlehem Steel and A. G. Mundle of U. S. Steel took the initiative in binding their companies to the Cartel. Four months later an agreement to divide up world markets was reached.

—RACE FOR WAR—

What the steel barons agreed to was not only a division of markets but arrangements for price-maintenance. Quotas were set regarding the total production of each participating company, with fines levied against the firm if it exceeded its quota.

However, here is the pay-off. The Germans always exceeded their quotas, and then kept on speeding their output of steel in the race for war. Meanwhile, American and British firms stayed within their quotas and kept down their war machine.

In contrast with the Germans, American firms, when they exceeded their quotas, were contrite and apologetic. For instance, here is an item from the steel Cartel minutes of April 18, 1939, which read:

"In regard to a recent shipment by the American group to Belgium, I. E. A. home market, the American representative stated that he was taking this matter up with his group in order to avoid a recurrence."

How the Cartel worked is also illustrated by a cable sent by Eugene Grace of Bethlehem Steel to Sir Charles Wright in London, dated Jan. 12, 1938, which read:

"Glad to have your message and talk with Elliot. I feel sure there will be no question about performance of member companies. Our only difficulty will come if at all from outside and uncontrolled interests. It will be our hope and effort to protect prices and have scheduled bringing all influence possible on uncontrolled interests. You of course in like manner will insist upon performance in our pricing zone. Best wishes Grace."

These agreements were renewed as late as December 1938, long after Hitler had seized Austria, and after the armed truce at Munich. They were even renewed in April 1939, just four months before the first shots were fired in Poland.

—SECRETARIES OF THE NAVY—

Many capital observers who think Harry Truman got away to a good start in picking a high-calibre cabinet are disappointed that he has not continued on that high level. The appointment of old political friends—California oil man Pauley, Mississippi Comedian George Allen, and Missouri Naval Aid Vardaman—to high posts of official trust has struck a very sour note.

Some observers argue that Pauley is just as well qualified to be secretary of the Navy as the man he is scheduled later to succeed—James Forrestal. Probably this is true. But any president other than Roosevelt would have a hard time getting Forrestal confirmed.

Most people have forgotten it, but the president of Bolivia complained bitterly to Roosevelt over the way Forrestal's banking firm, Dillon, Read & Company, had rammed a high-interest loan down Bolivia's throat. Thanks to a fat bribe to the Bolivian finance minister, that country was saddled with a loan which she can never repay, while unsuspecting American investors will never get back their cash. Forrestal's banking firm, however, collected the commissions.

Most people don't realize also that it was the Secretary of the Navy's firm which promoted loans to both Japanese and German interests before the war, and whose partner, now in the American Army in Germany, has been opposed to the dismantling of certain German factories.

Ed Pauley, in comparison, smells of oil, rye and evices to put his wife on the government expense account.

Perhaps if it is so hard to find anyone without embarrassing business connections to run the Navy, President Truman should go back to the Country-News-Paper Editor and Sunday-School teacher of the Josephus Daniels type.

But time has proved that Daniels was right and that the Navy under him was one of the best of any period.

Somebody should tell the girl next door that she can't play the piano while wearing fur mittens.

Q&A Service

By WS Bureau

Q. My husband went overseas April 30, 1945, and has only 23 points. Will he get back to the U. S. when he has served a year overseas?

A. Present War Department policy states that men with 2½ years overseas service would be eligible for return unless sooner eligible through point score.

Q. How long is the replacement training program for the Army?

A. It is thirteen weeks. The program provides for the completion of basic military subjects by the end of the sixth week and for seven weeks of advanced instruction.

Q. When was the last time registered over 25 years of age were called for induction?

A. Just prior to the surrender of Japan, Sept. 2, 1945.

OF GENERAL INTEREST

Q. Does a patent expire when the inventor dies?

A. No. The title of a patent passes to his heirs.

Q. Does Hawaii have its own currency?

A. It is a territory of the United States and has no separate monetary system, but uses the money of the United States.

Q. How much did the German Government owe the United States prior to World War II?

A. On June 30, 1939, Germany owed the United States $1,235,521,415.83, representing the remainder of her debt for the cost of the American Army of Occupation and the sum due for the settlement of mixed claims, and unpaid interest.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Q. Please give directions for laundering colored silks.

A. The silks should be very heavy and not warmer than lukewarm. Do not rub hard, as the fibers may be broken or the gloss dulled. Careful squeezing, or dousing in the suds, is better than rubbing. Avoid strong soap and the fabric to wring out the suds; washing powders and do not twist. Rinse thoroughly in water of the same temperature, and dry by squeezing and patting between dry towels or heavy cloths. A final rinse in a bath containing one-half ounce of 36 percent acetic acid to a gallon of water tends to increase the luster.

Q. Will a coat of paint applied to iron that has begun to rust, prevent it from rusting further?

A. No.

Q. What is the average life of canaries?

A. If cared for properly the life span is from 12 to 15 years.

DETROIT AIDS U. S. FARMERS

Prosperity From Ground Up Campaign Has Good Results

Research-minded executives of Detroit have pooled their talents and resources in an effort to help solve tough farm problems. Disclaiming any altruistic gesture, their attitude is that unless farmers are prosperous, neither industry nor labor nor anybody else can be prosperous.

As Roger Kyes, chairman of the executive committee, put it to Country Gentlemen, "We are convinced that the prosperity cycle starts with the farm and not with the factory payroll."

To put this conviction to work the Board of Commerce has appointed committees covering virtually every phase of agriculture, and the members' names constitute a veritable Who's Who of the motor capital.

To date more than a hundred different projects have been dropped into the "prosperity from the ground up" hopper for consideration and several of them, officially adopted, are being vigorously pressed.

Chas. Kettering, head of General Motors research, is looking for a commercial way to make trees grow faster. Another GM executive, Carlos Jolly, is working on possible legislation to retire unprofitable farm land. Detroit-Edison's Douglas Dow is searching for practical ways to reduce the number and destructiveness of farm fires. Harvey Merker, of Parke-Davis, is studying an unpronounceable enzyme which may make artificial insemination more productive. And William A. Mayberry, vice president of the Manufacturers National Bank, is thinking up schemes to stimulate the interest of local bankers in farm loans.

Commenting on the development of Detroit's "Prosperity from the Ground Up" movement, Ernest L. Anthony, Dean of Agriculture of Michigan State College, said, "This nation's future is assured when its great industries and its agriculture seek common ground of understanding and mutual cooperation in the development of a prosperous national economy."

Jap A-Bomb Victims Suffered A True Radiation Sickness

Washington—Jap victims of the atomic bomb suffered "true forms of radiation sickness" similar to that seen in the United States in patients who get sick following massive doses of X-rays or radium. Comdr. Joseph J. Timmes, Navy medical officer, reports in the Naval Medical Bulletin here.

Comdr. Timmes was one of the first American physicians to see atomic bomb patients in Japan. Aboard the U. S. S. Wichita, he steamed into Nagasaki Ko on Sept. 11, 33 days after the atomic bombing and about 10 days before the arrival of the various scientific commissions.

Fulgenz Falkies Winner In State Potato Contest

Fulgenz Falkies, Cornell farmer, was winner in Michigan's 1945 premier table stock contest, with 477 bushels of Russet Rural to the acre, it has been announced at the annual meeting of the Michigan Crop Improvement association in East Lansing.

Falkies had 7 1/2 acres in potatoes last year. Four acres were in table stock and 3 1/2 acres were in certified seed. Much of Falkies success is attributed to the good growing practices which he followed. Seed was planted 25 bushels to the acre, and was treated with senesal bel, green sprouted 16 days. The seed bed was alfalfa with 14 loads of manure to the acre. Eight hundred pounds of 2-12-12 fertilizer per acre was applied, and to combat disease the crop was sprayed 12 times during the season.

J. D. Robinson of Pellston was the state's 1945 premier certified potato grower.

The yield on Robinson's 45-acre averaged 614 bushels of certified seed, tops among 143 growers who entered the Michigan Premier Growers' contest. It was his fifth such award in the past 10 years. His best yield during that period, however, wasn't high enough for still another award to make it six out of 10. Emil DeBacker of St. Nicholas, Delta county, topped Robinson's record yield of 692 bushels with 715 bushels in 1944 to take first place.

Among other outstanding yields in both contests were those of Richard Bros., Manistique, with 507 bushels of certified Pontiacs per acre; John G. Woodman, Paw Paw, with 474 bushels of certified Chippewa seed; and Fred Foltz and Sons, Petoskey, with 401 Bushels of Russet Rural table stock.

Good cultural practices were chiefly responsible for success of the winners. Mr. Robinson grew Pontiac, Chippewa and Russet Rural varieties on sandy loam soil that previously had produced alfalfa. Careful preparation of the seedbed and care of the crop paid dividends. He plowed in the fall and disked the field eight times in the spring. Between May 15 and 30 he planted 35 bushels of certified seed to the acre, spacing the rows 32 inches and the hills 8 inches apart. Plenty of fertilizer was used, 1,500 pounds of 3-12-12 to the acre, and the field was sprayed eight times with Bordeaux mixture to control disease. A sprinkler type irrigation carried the potatoes through dry spells, with about six inches of water being applied during the growing season.

Several other high-producing growers used similar methods, with variations to produce their big yields.

4-H Club Leaders Meet Last Night

About thirty-five 4-H Club leaders of Delta county met last night at the court house in Escanaba for a discussion of clothing and handicraft projects led by Miss Emith Johnson and Orville Walker, Marquette, assistant state 4-H Club leaders.

E. A. Wenner, county agricultural agent, appointed leaders for the discussion, and the discussion was summarized by Miss Walker. Prior to the meeting the club leaders attended a dinner served at the Delta hotel.

Miss Johnson conducted with the clothing leaders a "How to Do It" quiz, and articles of clothing were exhibited which might be copied and made by the club members. Other projects also were discussed, including home management, good grooming, health, and food preparation.

Walker led the handicraft project leaders in a discussion of proper finishing of wood articles, construction of electrical devices, conservation, and good grooming for the 4-H Club boy.

County Employment Shows An Increase

J. M. Damitz, manager of the local United States Employment Service office, revealed yesterday that a total of 102 workers, 59 of these veterans of World War II, were placed in employment during January through the facilities of that office. Although this was a substantial increase in job placement over that of the previous month, it was greatly exceeded by the number of additional workers contacting the office for work. The expansion of the Dearfree company and the reopening of the Bay de Noquet sawmill at Nahma contributed greatly to the increased placement activity. Both concerns have been working in close cooperation with the local USES.

A further analysis of the January activities shows that there were 4,774 contacts at the local office is compared to 3,899 for the previous month and 420 new applications for work taken of which 309 were veterans and 56 were women. A count of the active application file at the close of January revealed that there were a total of 1453 persons seeking employment—1044 veterans, 180 women, and the remainder male non-veterans.

A check of the unfilled jobs as of Jan. 31 showed that there were a total of 123. However, in breaking down this total, it was found that 131 of these openings were for unskilled workers and another 30 for heavy unskilled labor work. This indicates why these jobs have remained unfilled when there are so many applicants seeking employment.

Damitz went on to say that although the USES office attempts to provide complete information on current anticipated local job openings, this can only be accomplished to the extent to which employers cooperate. In order to provide adequate job information to all individuals seeking work, he urged employers to keep the local U. S. Employment office advised of their needs.

Packenham Farewell Letter Urges Price Control For Nation

In a farewell letter of thanks to Edward Packenham, chairman of the Delta price control board, W. E. Fitzgerald, retiring director of the Office of Price Administration for Michigan, urged both the public and the employees of the OPA to continue to hold the price line.

"Now more than ever, the need for price control is being tried and tested by every argument, attack and ruse that pressure groups can devise. Small weaknesses and individual instances are magnified to proportions far beyond their import, but the American people will not be high-pressured into accepting the theories of false prophets," said Fitzgerald. "I am certain that Congress will sustain President Truman's request for continuation of price control for a year after its date of expiration."

The former OPA executive expressed his deep gratitude to the people of Delta county for their excellent record of compliance with price control and rationing regulations, pointing out that the end of nearly all such controls was foreseeable in the not-too-distant future, since plant reconversion was practically accomplished and production of long needed

COPRA TRADE STARTS AGAIN

Increase Of Soap Seen With Imports From Philippines

The arrival in the United States of shipments of Philippine copra, the dried meat of the coconut, has brought predictions of at least partial relief from the soap shortage.

Before the war the Philippines had more than 135 million coconut trees, and normally produced about 600,000 tons of copra a year to feed all other countries, says the National Geographic Society. Government experts estimate that the islands this year will export almost half of their normal output.

With Philippine sources cut off during the war, users of copra in the United States were dependent mostly on shipments from Ceylon, the Fiji and other British islands of the Pacific, and smaller quantities from the West Indies. Imports last year amounted to less than 100,000 tons.

Plenty of Copra, But— Like the Philippines, the Netherlands Indies, another important source of copra, are still suffering the aftermath of war. Malaya, New Guinea, and the Solomon Islands were other substantial prewar producers.

Imports from the Philippines normally included shipments of coconut oil, pressed from the copra. This year the shipments will probably be limited to copra, as the Japanese destroyed many of the copra mills. About six million coconut palms were killed or destroyed.

Warehousing and transportation, including inter-island shipment, have added to the difficulties of Philippine copra shippers. Many warehouses were destroyed or left roofless; others are needed for the army. Highway and railway bridges were destroyed in many places.

Better Transportation Sought A possible solution to the inter-island Philippine transportation problem, under consideration, is the use of army trucks, and the employment of small naval vessels to carry copra cargoes from the various islands to major ports.

In addition to the making of soap, coconut oil is used in the manufacture of such products as candles, perfume, glycerin, and makes soap lather freely, especially in hard water. Margarine manufacturers have had to rely almost wholly on cottonseed and other domestic vegetable oils rather than on coconut oil.

During the war, a large part of the copra and coconut oil imports into the United States went to military uses. Glycerin was in great wartime demand for the making of explosives, and coconut oil yields about 40 per cent more glycerin than domestic fats and oils.

Tragedy Has Overshadowed The Career Of Leopold, Unpredictable Belgian King

By JOACHIM JOESTEN
NEA Special Correspondent
New York, (NEA)—Leopold, King of the Belgians, is the youngest member of the northwestern group of constitutional monarchs. He is also the only one of them who has gotten into trouble with his people.

The reasons for this are many and varied. They range from personal characteristics, through a fateful military decision, to his unpopular second marriage. Leopold has made mistakes, but he has also been the victim of circumstances.

He is a tragic figure—in the sense of classical drama. Tragedy, personal and national, has overshadowed his path from his early youth.

Born Nov. 3, 1901, he was not yet 13 when the Kaiser's armies invaded and ravaged his country. Throughout that war, in which his father, Albert I, won worldwide acclaim, as the gallant "soldier-king," the prince lived the life of a simple private in the 12th Regiment.

Became King In 1934 On Feb. 17, 1934, King Albert was killed by a fall while rock-climbing near Namur. Leopold succeeded to the throne. A tall, handsome, athletic young man, he had many prepossessing qualities, but one thing told heavily against him from the start: The extraordinary prestige and popularity of his late father. Whatever he was to do, however, he was to comport himself, in the following years, people judged him by Albert's standards. He would have had to be a hero, a sage and a saint, all in one, to measure up to his father's reputation.

Then, after only a short reign, tragedy struck again. In August, 1935, Leopold's wife, Queen Astrid, was killed in a motor accident in Switzerland. Leopold sat at the wheel and rumors that he had been driving recklessly never died down. The Belgian people were stunned and aggrieved, for the beautiful and lovable Swedish princess, whom Leopold married in 1926, had won everybody's heart. The couple had three children, one girl and two boys, of whom Prince Baudouin, now 15, is the heir presumptive.

During the next few years, Leopold's popularity waned steadily, and he did little to improve matters. There was a wide-spread feeling that the young monarch had pro-Fascist leanings. He was supposed to be under the influence of his brother-in-law, the Italian Crown Prince Humbert. His policy of strict neutrality, during the long "war of nerves" preceding World War II, was interpreted as underhand aid to the dictators. In internal affairs, he earned the resentment of the French-speaking Walloons (and, indirectly, the French) by favoring the Flemish section of his country. Among his personal advisers, there were several Flemings suspected of Nazi sympathies.

When Belgium became independent, in 1831, the revolutionary congress devised one of the most liberal and democratic constitutions in Europe. The concept of monarchy prevailed, but the king's powers were strictly limited. Indeed, the makers of the constitution frequently used the expression "republican monarchy."

People's Will Supreme Royal prerogatives were so hedged in that when a deputation presented the Constitution to the prospective King Leopold I, he remarked: "Gentlemen, you have treated the king rather rudely in this document and he wasn't there to defend himself. Your charter is very democratic, but with good-will from both sides, it will work out all right." Nevertheless, the King-designate bowed to the people's will and took the oath of allegiance for himself and his heirs. Hence, even the slightest attempt on the part of Leopold III to by-pass the Constitution was

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are the chief way of taking excess acids and poisons waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully for years with over 45 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Charles, younger brother of King Leopold, has served as Regent since the liberation of Belgium.

bound to arouse suspicion and opposition.

Even so, Leopold might have redeemed himself if, in May, 1940, he had lived up to his father's record. At the start of the Nazi invasion, he appeared to do so by taking the field at the head of his army. But his capitulation on May 28 spoiled everything. The circumstances of that surrender are not yet fully cleared up and the controversy as to its motives and justification continues. But even giving Leopold all the benefits of doubt, and assuming that he was prompted, above all, by the desire to spare his country needless suffering, the fact remains that his decision to capitulate was taken against the formal stand of his Cabinet. Leopold hardly deserved the epithets of "traitor" and "King Quisling" that were freely bestowed upon him at the time, but he did act unconstitutionally. The Belgian people have never forgiven him for this.

For the next four years, Leopold lived in a mild form of German custody at Laeken castle, Brussels. He regarded himself as a prisoner of war, and did not exercise his functions, but his personal movements were not much restricted.

During this period, he did two things that heavily weighed down the balance of popularity against him. On Sept. 11, 1941, he married a commoner, Mary Lella Baels, beautiful daughter of a former Cabinet minister and Governor of West Flanders, Henricus-Ludovicus Baels. He made her Princess of Rethy, but she cannot become queen. In July 1942, she bore him a son, Alexander. Leopold's morganatic second marriage met with general disapproval in Belgium. Conservative circles were against it because the bride was a commoner. The Left, which could hardly allow itself to be swayed by such undemocratic sentiments, saw in the wedding proof that the King's "captivity" at Laeken was a fake. The Walloons were resentful of the King's marriage to a Flemish girl. And the people in general, who revered the late Queen Astrid almost like a saint, just couldn't forgive Leopold for remarrying.

The other thing Leopold did during that time was more compromising. He twice visited Hitler at Berchtesgaden, of his own free accord. It is not possible yet to pass final judgment on the motives of the King, and on the nature of his talks with Hitler, but a memorandum released by the Belgian Government, on Nov. 2, 1945, is quite incriminating. This is a transcript of notes taken by Dr. Paul Schmidt, the Fuehrer's personal interpreter, of a meeting between Leopold and Hitler in November, 1940.

Close Call
As little Jimmie Casey, four year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Casey, was playing with his chums on the ice Thursday he slipped through a hole and held himself up by his outspread elbows. The chums started to cry but made no effort to get help. Gerald Casey, uncle of the victim, was in a fish shed nearby and on going to the door to close it tightly against the rising wind, saw the children standing still, just crying. When asked why they were acting thus they told of Jimmie's plight. Jimmie didn't make any outcry, just whimpered.

200-Inch Telescope Nears Completion

New York—The 200-inch telescope is expected to furnish observing data for a critical test of a new theory of relativity which cuts down the population of the universe to only about 11 billion galaxies. This theory, proposed by the late Dr. George D. Birkhoff, of Harvard University, has been applied to the dynamics of the universe by Sr. Luis Enrique Erro, director, and Dr. Carlos Graef, assistant director, of the Mexican Astrophysical Observatory at Tonantzintla, in the State of Puebla, Mexico.

In three papers given here today at the meeting of the American Astronomical Society, the present results of their computations and point out that counts of remote star systems, so faint as to be seen only by the Mount Palomar telescope, are needed to give observational proof of the corrections of the Birkhoff theory.

CATTLE NEED VACCINATION

Changes In Some State Regulations Are Advocated

Most thorough test of vaccination for Bangs Disease yet conducted has been going on for several years on farms owned by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. With the cooperation of the Bureau of Animal Husbandry of the Department of Agriculture, cattle on some 250 of the company's farms all over the country have been under observation.

According to the company's farm manager, vice president Glenn E. Rogers in Country Gentleman, it has been proved that vaccination is safe and good business when done by a properly accredited veterinarian following USDA instructions. A vaccinated animal, even if it shows a positive reaction to the agglutination test for Bangs Disease because of the vaccination, is a safer and sounder animal to have in a herd than a Bangs-free animal which has not been vaccinated but may develop the disease at any time.

"In the fall of 1939," Mr. Rogers reports, "we tested all our cows and found that 118 out of 466 were either positive or suspicious reactors. Many of these we sold for slaughter, but nevertheless we had 78 abortions in the herd the following year. In the meantime we had started to vaccinate female calves in the fall of 1939. Thus by the following fall we had 151 vaccinated two-year-old heifers in the herd, along with 498 cows which we tested. Cow tests showed more than 200 positive or suspicious reactors, many of which we sold for slaughter, and our abortion total for the year 1941 went down to 20. Again in 1942, with vaccinated three-year-olds and two-year-olds now in the herd, we tested the cows, sold off more reactors, and brought abortions down to 11. And by 1943, when we finally disposed of the last of our reactors and had almost nothing in the herd except two, three and four year old producing cows which had been vaccinated as calves, we had not one single abortion in the whole year."

Most states have sanitary regulations which prohibit the interstate shipment of cattle which are positive or suspicious reactors to the Bangs Disease test. In the light of Mr. Rogers' experience he believes that such regulations are hindering progress in the fight against the disease, by discouraging raisers of fine cattle from vaccinating their stock. The time has come, he says, to change these regulations, and to recognize a certificate of vaccination as an even better criterion for interstate shipment than a Bangs-free certificate on an unvaccinated animal.

Dear Friends:

Remember a few years ago post buyers would not accept more than 5 percent of your posts in 2-inch sizes? Consequently 2-inch posts were left in the woods to rot by the thousands. About that time the Fence Company of America devised a means of utilizing these two-inch posts in large quantities in the manufacturing of their fencing, absorbing the surplus of small posts and creating a demand which resulted in a fair price.

The Fence Company of America has grown consistently each year until today it is probably the largest producer of prefabricated white cedar fencing in the world. Through its manufacturing plant at 700 North 21st Street on U. S. Route 41 in Escanaba, and the post yard connected with the plant, where posts are purchased from the cutters, farmers and jobbers wishing to dispose of their small size posts, the Fence Company of America channels from $5,000 to $10,000 weekly into the trade circles of the Upper Peninsula.

Like many successful businesses, we have had many imitators although few have survived. We are not post jobbers! All suitable posts are made into fencing and other products, furnishing many jobs for Upper Peninsula residents.

You will now understand why your 2-inch and 3-inch posts are more valuable and why the Fence Company of America has in the past and will in the future pay you the highest prices for them.

Yours very truly,
FENCE COMPANY OF AMERICA

Know what makes a "slip horn" slide?

UNLESS you're a confirmed "slip horn" addict, you probably wouldn't know about slide trombone oil. But we can assure you, were it not for this lubricant, your "hot trombone" music would be cold as a penguin's call, and your "sweet stuff" would be definitely "on the acid side."

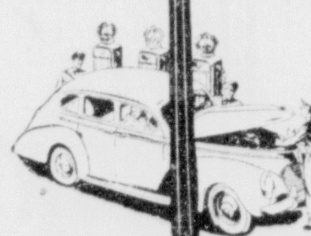

Ask your trombonist. He'll tell you, "I gotta have that oil!"

We make it for him—some good years sell all of a barrel and a half of it! And it's a very special oil, too! Must be very highly refined for purity must be very light, yet possess unusual adherent qualities... must be odorless, tasteless, dripless.

Here we hob up outside our role of supplying million-barrel quantities of gasoline, motor oils, kerosene, fuel oil—products you probably are accustomed to associate with Standard Oil. Actually the list of our petroleum products fills scores of closely-typed notebooks, and meets many thousands of special needs—including lubrication for slide trombones.

A barrel and a half a year... not much shakes as a volume producer for us! But our slide trombone oil produces plenty of volume for the folks who exercise on the "slip horn."

STANDARD SERVICE

Making products for unusual uses is part of our everyday work. And so is the making of unusual products for your everyday use—gasolines topped up with aviation fuel ingredients, motor oil that cleans as it protects, solvent that removes soot and sludge. These and many others will soon be waiting for you at the sign of Standard Service.

Anna Mae Peltier
And Henry King Are
Wed At Bark River

St. George's church at Bark River was the scene of a nuptial high mass which united in marriage Miss Anna Mae Peltier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Peltier of Bark River, and Henry King, son of Mr. and Mrs. George King of Flat Rock.

Lighted tapers and fresh flowers decorated the altar for the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Fr. Neil M. Stehlin. Music of the mass was played by Mrs. Edwin Bergman, organist, who also accompanied the soloist, Miss Patsy Ammel.

The bride wore a gown of white marquisette over satin, with a lace-edged veil which was gathered in a tiara. Her all-white bouquet was fashioned of lilies and snapdragons, with long shower streamers. She wore a string of pearls, gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Mary Jean Peltier, the maid of honor, wore a gown of blue lace over satin, and carried a bouquet of roses and gardenias. The bridesmaid was Miss Dorothy King, who wore a gown of pink lace over satin, and carried a bouquet similar to that of the maid of honor.

Joseph Chenier was best man, and Robert Peltier was the usher.

Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at the Perket Hotel in Bark River. In the evening, 100 guests attended a dinner at the Flat Rock town hall. The couple left later for a wedding trip to Pontiac.

Mr. and Mrs. King will make their home in Flat Rock, where the bridegroom is employed at the Escanaba Paper company. He recently received his discharge from the service after three and one-half years of duty, spending 18 months overseas in Africa, France and Italy. He was awarded the Purple Heart.

Out of town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wheatley of Pontiac, Pfc. Clarence Robitaille, Fort Knox, Ky.; Clarence Martin and Janet Chenier of Rapid River, and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Chenier of Watson.

It's High Time You Ignored These
'Old Wives' Tales About Beauty

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

Let's take a debunker's hammer to those beauty superstitions or "old wives' tales which can hold a girl back in her pursuit of good looks. When, for instance, you fall for this one—that hair shouldn't be washed oftener than once a week—you may find yourself away behind others in the race for beauty.

Hair can be dunked daily, if you LIKE it that fresh and if it's THAT oily. Many a screen lovely appears before the camera with locks that are shampooed daily. Of course, you wouldn't if your scalp were dry, and ditto your hair. In that case you would shampoo less often and apply oils or pomades to your scalp just as you do cream to your skin to counteract dryness.

Beliefs Debunked
Old wives' tale No. 2 that needs to be knocked down is the ancient one that warns you to pass up lanolin face cream if you don't want to become as hairy as the bearded lady of the circus. If that were true, bald-headed gents, who long ago would have used lanolin cream to grow hair, would be as extinct as the dodo.

So, stop allowing this silly belief to keep you from using one of the best friends a dry or aging complexion can claim—a lanolin-based cream which many chemists and doctors claim can penetrate the skin and is tops for softening it.

Whooping up the eye-lashes? Stop wasting your time putting stuff on to make them grow thicker or longer. Spend it stepping up the Vitamin A content of your diet, if it's deficient. If it's not, master the technique of threading in a few phony lashes to run handsomer awnings out over your lids.

That tightly drawn top-knots will make you bald, or that permanents or hair-dyes used on your hair will make it stop growing, are two more fallacies that need debunking. Screwing hair up into a bun won't scalp you, and perms, dyes or bleaches used on it won't halt or slow down its growth.

Pluck one gray hair and in comes a flock? You really don't believe that one, do you?

Russians Like
Deanna Durbin

By REMBERT JAMES
AP News Features

Moscow—The face and voice of Deanna Durbin probably are more familiar to Muscovites at present than those of any other foreign woman.

In the Soviet Union, where people like singing and dancing, she currently is enjoying a vogue among filmgoers that leaves Bette Davis a very poor second and no one else among foreign actresses even in the running.

A current film, "Spring Waltz," in which Deanna wears peasant costumes, is largely responsible for the popularity of the American actress. It shows her waltzing in a beer garden, warbling atop a hay wagon, and bemusing an embezzler with a naive attempt to interest him in promoting a musical composition for her boy friend.

At one time 20 theaters in Moscow were exhibiting the film simultaneously, and her picture is displayed in more places than signs pointing to the Moscow subway stations.

"Spring Waltz," even now, months afterward, is still drawing steady lineups at the boxoffice before the downtown Metrople Theater, where it easily outclasses in popularity Bette Davis in "The Little Foxes."

Foreigners who have long resided in Moscow say the only thing they remember surpassing it was Charlie Chaplin's popularity. But no new Chaplin films have been seen here in years.

There is no indication of this or other American films affecting Moscow life, however, except in adding to its gaiety. American dance music, however, has had a definite effect in popularizing ballroom dancing. Every night at the various factory palaces of culture, where workers go for social recreation, thousands of Moscow couples dance to music in which American tunes are the mainstay.

In Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

Hollywood, (NEA)—Jim Moran the Hollywood press agent with a flair for many stunts is at it again. Jim is the fellow who once sold an icebox to an Eskimo, took a bull into a china shop, found a needle in a haystack and went whale hunting in San Francisco Bay. For Christmas, a friend sent Jim a pair of handsome handcuffs. Jim had once mentioned that he would like to own a pair, and the pal remembered.

Jim was sitting at a Hollywood bar, watching a young Romeo's ardent wooing of a very pretty girl. Jim watched and listened for some time. Then the great idea struck him. He moved closer and closer to the pair and then, quick as an FBI man, he slipped one handcuff on the boy's arm, the other on the girl's and clicked them shut. Before anyone knew what had happened, Jim was out of the place, running like Busher, and half way down Sunset Boulevard.

We saw Jim sitting dejectedly in a Hollywood restaurant. He was toying with the key to those handcuffs, and said he was going crazy wondering what had happened after he left. He has been afraid to go back and find out.

Tea Now Served
Irene Dunne is going to keep up with the British movie set, or her maid will know the reason why. Irene recently hired Lily May, who has worked for more than a decade for movie notables, as her studio maid. Lily May insisted that Irene serve her afternoon tea in her portable dressing room. "But I never serve tea," Irene protested. "Well," retorted Lily May, "the British stars do and I'm not going to have my star outdone by anybody." Tea is now available daily, between 4 and 5 p. m.

A batch of pigeons was supposed to stroll back and forth in the foreground of a scene for the picture, "Escape Me Never." They did not stroll. They flew up into the rafters of the sound stage. Said the director to the man in charge of the birds: "What kind of pigeons are these? I want 'em to walk." Said the man in charge of the birds: "Then why the devil didn't you order walking pigeons? We have both kinds, you know. We also have the kind that strut."

Success Story
Lewis Allen is a new Hollywood director, going places with such hits as "The Uninvited," "The Unseen," "Those Endearing Young Charms," "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay," and now "The Perfect Marriage." Allen started out as a seaman on a British ship, hoping some day to get his captain's ticket. In spare moments he wrote a review which he staged at a seamen's canteen in New York.

The performance so impressed the manager of the canteen that she advised him to give up the sea. He did, getting his first role as an actor with the help of the attractive young secretary of a London theatrical manager. Later he became an outstanding stage director. The attractive secretary is in Hollywood now, too. She is Mrs. Lewis Allen.

War Brides Are Entitled To Truth

By RUTH MILLETT
NEA Staff Writer

"The women hadn't been told what conditions to expect," said the mother of one of the 75 babies, all children of American servicemen, crowded into a converted freighter for the 45-day voyage from New Zealand to America.

Certainly foreign wives of GI's—no matter how eager they are to join their men in America—should know just what hardships, if any, they are letting themselves and their children in for before they set sail.

Not only should they know what to expect in the way of accommodations for the voyage—but they should know what conditions to expect after they arrived in America.

They should know what difficulties to expect if they must make long train trips carrying small babies. They should know about the housing situation, etc.

It is flattering to Americans to have the people in other countries look upon America as Utopia and a land of plenty and a hospitable haven.

But the war brides who are contemplating joining their husbands here should be given a realistic picture. All too many of them are fighting to get to America—only to be disillusioned.

The welcome they expected is not always here. Living conditions aren't always what they have been led to expect.

And, in the case of the New Zealand brides, their voyage was a

Sophie Lalaef And
Lloyd Johnson Are
Wed Here Recently

Miss Sophie Lalaef, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lalaef, 1605 Sheridan Road, became the bride of Lloyd V. Johnson, son of Mrs. Anna Johnson, 1430 Sheridan Road, at a ceremony which took place recently in the parsonage of Bethany Lutheran church. The couple exchanged vows before the Rev. Gustav Lund.

The bride wore a white wool dress trimmed in gold, with black accessories and a corsage of pink roses. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Mary Wickman, who wore a dress of pale green wool with brown accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

John Moskun was best man.

Following the ceremony, a wedding dinner, arranged by the bride's mother, was served to 30 guests at the Johnson residence, where fresh flowers and ferns decorated the rooms for the occasion. A three-tiered wedding cake centered the table.

The couple left later for an extended trip through Northern Wisconsin, Illinois and Iowa, the bride selecting a travelling costume of cadet blue gabardine with brown accessories. They will make their home in Escanaba.

Mrs. Johnson is a graduate of Escanaba high school, and is employed by the Michigan Bell telephone company. Mr. Johnson, also a graduate of Escanaba high school, was recently discharged from the Army with the rank of technician fifth grade, after three years service, 30 months of which were spent in Africa, Sicily, Italy, France and Germany. He is employed by the Shepeck Lumber company.

Out of town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Nick Sigan, Mr. and Mrs. Alpha Wickman, Mr. and Mrs. Gunnar Wickman of Gladstone, Mr. and Mrs. Elwyn A. Swanson and son, Victor, of Orion, Ill.

Tricky Draping Of New Sun
Togs Will Flatter Figure

Black and white stripes accent the sculptured look of this Frances Sider-designed play suit. The bra is elastic encased for firm fit. Fluted skirt molds hipline.

By EPSIE KINARD

NEA Staff Writer

New York—(NEA)—Fashions in play clothes for now and next summer follow the new tack that togs can bare a girl to the sun and still cover her figure faults.

Such styles are the smash hits of the season. And for good reason. Women go for duds which glorify figures like steel filings go for a magnet.

Only by subtle handling are some of the new suits saved from their fate of looking nude. Tops are as low-cut as ever. Skirts and panties are as short. One pair of bathing suit pants exhibited in a recent showing brought the audience to the edges of its chairs. It was disclosed that average leg length could be hoisted higher, like a Venetian blind, by running up a draw-string tie on the pants.

But subtle or not, the tricks used reflect marked improvement in the silhouette. Shirred and fluted bra tops, for instance, are used to enhance bosomy curves. Widened diaphragm bands give midriffs sleeker fit, and skillfully designed skirts mould hips into smoother lines.

Fabrics abet designers in their plots to glorify figures. Rayon jersey and the new miracle one-denier rayon, which drapes like a dream, go into a series of exclusive screen prints for making soigneé play clothes. Gabardine walks side by side with satin in sleek black and white fashions, dubbed "Sun Etchings." King Cotton's princelings are represented and so is Celanese's famed prospecter rayon, which helps to make news of "bullfighter" play duds. Inspired by the rapier-like movements of the lithe-limbed matador, Frances Sider, play clothes designer noted for her new ideas, reproduces his below-the-knee pants to give long-legged American girls more dapper elegance.

For companions, these bullfighter shorts have straight jackets which are worn over matching bras, or come teamed, man-styled, with rough-n-ready tailored shirts.

Boxing has many devotees in Manistique.

This fact was much in evidence at the Escanaba junior high school gymnasium at the Golden Gloves tournament staged there Monday and Tuesday evenings.

Some of the scrappiest kids and by far the most enthusiastic fight fans there came from Manistique. In several of the events it was distinctly a Manistique show. This was particularly the case when Pinky Weber, a husky young 160 pounder from here, battled it out with Ray Sabuco, of the same weight, from Escanaba. It was a slam-bang affair spiced with some fairly good boxing. The decision, which went to the Escanaba lad, was extremely hard for local fans to take. They insisted that the bout was Pinky's by a wide margin.

Bob Rozich, of Manistique, lost to Ronnie LaCount of Iron Mountain in a clean cut decision. Members of the local Elks lodge, who saw Bob perform Monday night and also at a boxing program staged by the Elks about a month ago, were much impressed with the progress he has made. His biggest drawback at present is conserving his staying power for the full three rounds.

Carl Barnes, local 145 pounder, did some very effective target practice with his gloves on the head, neck and ribs of Ray Fuller, of Iron Mountain, to score what was all but a technical knockout.

Also included in the Manistique fight squad were Joe Bosanec, Bob Barnes and Leonard Sharkey, who were featured in Tuesday's card.

These boys, under the tutelage of Ed Toyra and Joe Handel and under the fatherly sponsorship of Clint Leonard, have had very little training, and have been further handicapped by lack of training quarters and equipment. The gloves at their disposal were loaned them by the Catholic Youth Organization.

New quarters, it is understood, will be arranged for them in a room at the Manistique Youth Center.

Plans are in the making to have an inter-city boxing show staged in Manistique late in February or early in March, with boxers from Manistique participating.

CHALLENGE TO STRIKERS

Alright!!! So you can't buy meat! So, you're hungry for meat too. So am I. So are my kids. We used to like weiners and bologna. During the war we ate it without grumbling, but the war is over now. We don't mind helping to feed the hungry people of Europe, we admit it's a good cause. But there is definitely no good in our children going hungry. By hungry I don't mean empty stomachs. I mean vitamin deficiency. I wonder if the men who are striking realize the same hunger in their own children or have they managed to provide for their children where we on the receiving end have not had that opportunity? And, so they strike! They want more money, higher wages, and if they get it, what then? Any adult should know the answer. Higher wages result in higher prices. There is a lot of griping done about inflation. You men who are striking are the root and the cause of any inflation that we may have in our country. This applies to all strikers in every industry. We talk about a new world, this new world rests upon the shoulders of our present younger generation. But are they going to be equipped to manage this new world? They've got to be healthy and strong to take the new job on. Are they going to be or will they be men and women lacking in vitamins? Men and women who are going to follow the examples of you strikers. I hope they never find cause to let our ships stand idle when there are thousands of boys, with only one thing in their hearts, to come home. Or are they going to have to go cold because of a coal shortage that a country so rich is unable to produce. The conveniences we all look forward to because of the steel shortage. Is this our future? These are only examples, there are many more. But is this our children's inheritance. I challenge you strikers to think the matter over carefully and I suggest this: that if you have a grime, take it to your boss and discuss the matter with him, and him alone. Remember, he's a human being too. Probably he came up the hard way, he will listen to you and if he is as intelligent enough to get where he is now, he will most certainly be intelligent enough to listen to his own men. This is purely my own opinion and I feel and I know that there never has been and there is not now any need for strikes. Our children's life is yet ahead of them. Our country belongs to them. Don't dump this mess into their hands.

POLIO FUND
DRIVE LAGS

Increase In Donations
Is Expected
Soon

Called to report the results on January 31 of the Infantile Paralysis drive in Schoolcraft county, Charles D. Manson, county chairman, had to report that but $112 had up to that time been donated.

This is by far the poorest showing made in the county to date. Last year's subscription, the previous one, was $656.

Not discouraged by the present situation, Mr. Manson states that many sizeable donations are still due. Many people, no doubt, will do what one certain resident here has promised. He writes out his checks on a certain day of each month and this month will make out a substantial contribution to the cause.

It isn't so much a matter of "making a good showing," says Mr. Manson, as it is to insure adequate support from this county to the physio-therapy department of St. Luke's hospital at Marquette which is prepared to handle emergency cases as they arise.

One half of the money collected remains in the county to be a part of the local emergency fund. Through this fund appliances for patients, travel expenses and other expense involved in waging the local fight are made possible.

The other half of the amount collected goes to the National Infantile Paralysis Foundation to carry on the fight on a national basis. Not only does this portion of the fund go toward treatment of those afflicted, but also pays for the research work which is being carried on.

Said Mr. Manson, "We should look upon our donation to this cause as an insurance premium. None but the very wealthy could afford to pay the necessary expenses involved in the treatment of an average case of infantile paralysis. But thanks to the donations made throughout the country, funds are now available to fight the disease wherever it arises."

The campaign will continue in Schoolcraft county for several weeks.

The "call" of the tree toad is generally considered as a prophecy of rain. There is some truth in this, because warm, moist air, which usually precedes rain, releases the male toad's mating urge, so he "sings."

Four Knockouts Feature Golden Gloves Boxing Championships

BOUNTS THRILL LARGE CROWD

Sharkey Scores Kayo In Finals; 14 Bouts On Program

Four knockouts, all of them in the first round, climaxed the finals of the Upper Peninsula Golden Gloves boxing tournament at the junior high school gymnasium last night before a capacity crowd of more than 1600 wildly cheering fans.

The results follow:
135 Pound Novice Semi-Finals
 Albert Massey, Sault Ste. Marie, defeated Ray Francis, Marquette, decision.

147 Pound Novice Semi-Finals
 Carl Barnes, Manistique, defeated Richard Johnson, Skandia, decision.

160 Pound Novice Semi-Finals
 Dwight Meyers, Escanaba, defeated Eloise Nault, Iron Mountain, decision.

135 Pound Novice Consolation Finals
 Ed Straub, Escanaba, defeated Mike Libick, Skandia, decision.

147 Pound Novice Consolation Finals
 Leo Lancoeur, Escanaba, defeated Ray Fuller, Iron Mountain, decision.

126 Pound Novice Championship
 Bob Provo, Escanaba, defeated Harry Lancoeur, Flat Rock.

Heavyweight Novice Championship
 Robert Barnes, Manistique, knocked out Howard Bourdeau, Escanaba, first round.

135 Pound Novice Championship
 Don Little, Escanaba, defeated Albert Massey, Sault Ste. Marie, decision.

147 Novice Championship
 Dwight Meyers, Escanaba, knocked out Carl Barnes, Manistique, first round.

160 Pound Consolation Finals
 Delo Weber, Manistique, defeated Joe Bosanic, Manistique, decision.

147 Pound Open Championship
 James Hubbard, Sault Ste. Marie, knocked out Ray Goodnough, Escanaba, first round.

160 Pound Open Championship
 Leonard Sharkey, Manistique, knocked out Orville Van Effen, Escanaba, first round.

The best sportsmanship award, a pair of boxing gloves, was won by Mike Libick, of Skandia.

The finals of the Golden Gloves tournament was thrill packed from start to finish with 14 bouts featuring plenty of action.

In the windup Leonard Sharkey, the Manistique Indian lad, who was the only pre-war Golden Gloves champion back in action this year, tagged Van Effen with a stiff body blow that brought the Escanaba lad to the canvas for the count in a minute and 32 seconds of the first round.

In the semi-final bout of the evening, James Hubbard, a polished scrapper from the Soo with a lethal punch in either hand, stalked Ray Goodnough, of Escanaba, the oldest man in the tournament, for a minute in the opening round and then let fly a terrific wallop to the head which dropped Goodnough for the count.

Dwight Meyers, of Escanaba, pummeled Carl Barnes, of Manistique, in the finals of the 147 pound novice class before the referee, Jimmy Mancini, of Iron Mountain, stopped the fight in the opening round. Meyers previously had taken a close decision from Eloise Nault, of Iron Mountain, in the semi-finals. Nault, in turn, had eliminated Jim LaLonde, of Sault Ste. Marie, the favorite, in the quarter-finals Monday evening.

In the other knockout of the evening, Robert Barnes, of Manistique, stopped Howard Bourdeau, of Escanaba, in the heavyweight finals. Barnes outboxed Bourdeau by 19 pounds and had the advantage of considerably longer reach. A blow to the stomach ended the bout early in the first round.

Don Little, the Escanaba red-headed lightweight, copped the 135 pound novice title in a close decision over Albert Massey, of the Soo. The battle was furiously fought and was in doubt right to the end. Little previously had fought his way to the finals with a decision over Ronald LaCouture of Iron Mountain, and Massey reached the finals by trimming Ray Francis of Marquette.

Ray Sabuco, of Escanaba, captured the middleweight novice title with a decision over Joe Bosanic of Manistique.

The featherweight title went to Bob Provo of Escanaba in a furious battle with Harry Lancoeur of Flat Rock.

The consolation winners, all of whom will receive boxing robes along with the winners in the championship divisions, were Ed Straub, of Escanaba, who defeated Mike Libick, of Skandia; Leo Lancoeur, of Escanaba, who defeated Ray Fuller, of Iron Mountain; and Delo Weber, Manistique, who defeated a teammate, Joe Bosanic, also of Manistique.

Hunting And Fishing

By Sid Gordon

I GET MY EARS PINNED BACK

Today's mail brought me a letter from a liar. He didn't sign his name to it but I'm going to print it anyway. I claim he's a liar because he signed it "Farmer" and it was written on expensive paper. The typing was done by a high priced stenographer, or I'm a poor judge. "He opens the letter by giving me both barrels. 'Dear Mr. Gordon: You and your hunting and fishing friends are a bunch of leeches, pussyfooters and sissies. Out side of raising a few pheasants you and your rod and gun clubs aren't worth the powder to blow them to the hot place.

"Why don't you holler for a bounty on mink, muskrat and mallards? When nature cut down the grouse and the rabbits as she does every so often, and you all know it, you blame the foxes, the wolves and the coyotes.

"Did you take your guns and go out and cut down the predators? You did not! You cried like a bunch of babies and ran to the state and counties for a bounty. And they gave it to you! $20 (twenty dollars) for the hide of a wolf or coyote and $3 (three dollars) for a fox. And you keep the hides!

"Next you will be yelling for a bounty of $50 to be paid for killing a bear. Surely a bear does five times the damage of wolf or coyote so why not get it. How long before you will yell for a $20 bounty on wild does which do more damage than wolves or coyotes and I can prove it?"

"In the old countries men have fox hunting clubs and spend as high as $20,000 a year and then often let the fox go, rather than kill him, so they can hunt another day. You fellows won't even get out with your guns and dogs unless someone shoves money in your pocket for shooting fox and coyotes.

"I know you won't print this but I'm going to tell you something. When our boys get back from the war, they will show you up as a bunch of sissies. They'll be glad to hunt fox, wolf or coyote for the fun of it and the exercise.

"You hunters and fishermen have had it too safe for several years. Those boys will take your guns away from you and make you hunt with slingshots. They'll get into your rod and gun clubs or they'll assassinate in their after—the war—organizations and stop such silly stuff.

"You're like Hitler and all the rest of that gang, so busy thinking up new laws and burdens that you can't see the forest for the trees. Next thing we know you'll be shouting for a gun bearer who will also carry a little folding seat for you, on your little dollar license.

"Farmer."

H-m-m-m. Say fellows do you know that isn't a bad idea, that gun bearer and folding seat! Wonder if the state could do it for us? I'm getting old and I wouldn't mind adding half a buck extra for such service.

Pistol And Rifle Competitors Will Get Moving Targets

Washington, Feb. 5 (P)—National pistol and rifle championship contests will be resumed this year with something new added—rapid-firing at moving targets under simulated war conditions.

The National Rifle association said today that plans have been made for the 1946 competitions on a much larger scale. The last championships were held in 1941.

No dates or sites have been selected for this year's championship events, but regional qualifying events probably will be conducted in June or July with the championships coming late in the summer. Before the war, the championships usually were held at Camp Perry, Ohio.

Such pre-war champions as Harry Reeves, Detroit policeman, at pistol firing, and Ransford Triggs, New Jersey rifle sharpshooter, are expected to defend their holdover titles.

Wary Spartans Return To Campus

East Lansing, Feb. 5 (P)—Road-weary from an extended trip during which they were able to salvage only a victory over Cincinnati while dropping close games to Notre Dame and Kentucky, the Michigan State College basketball squad returned to the campus here today to rest for Thursday night's scheduled return game with Wayne.

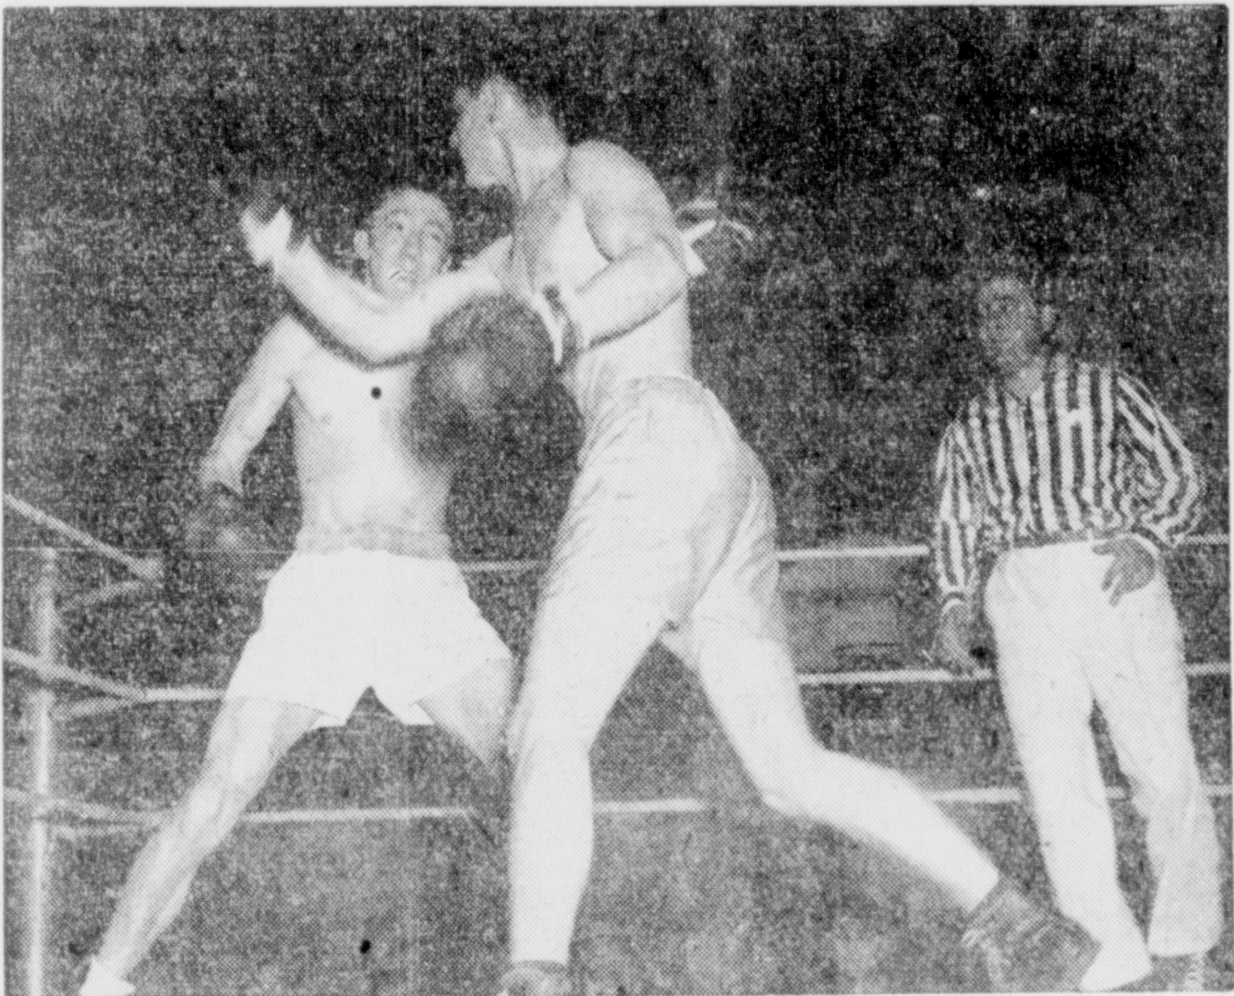

Coach Ben F. Van Alstyne ordered only a light shooting drill for Wednesday's practice.

The Spartans will hold only a slight advantage over the Tartars, whom they defeated earlier in the season, 43-37. State will be trying to get back on the winning side of the ledger, their win-loss record standing at 7-7 to date.

FANS LOVE IT—Here are a group of ringside customers at the opening night matches in the Golden Gloves tournament. Appropriately enough, all eyes are glued on the gladiators and the fans really are enjoying the show.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

Several circumstances complicated the problem of making the pairings in the opening round of the Golden Gloves tournament Monday night, but after developing a terrific headache wrestling with the task, the matching committee worked out a solution that was equitable for all contestants.

The first unexpected incident was the disqualification of Paul Lancoeur, Jr., of Brampton, by the medicals. The pairings in Lancoeur's division had already been made and his disqualification necessitated some juggling.

The second and more troublesome complication resulted from a peculiarity of the weighing-in results. Nine lads qualified for the 147 novice class, where only eight had been expected and this reduced the middleweight class from four to three. One of the lads weighed exactly 148 pounds, which with the one pound tolerance permitted him to elect to fight in the welterweight class. The shift really gummed up the pairings and necessitated a complete revision of the tournament program.

Saddy and Levy were both pleased with the Golden Gloves tournament here, recognizing the problems involved in reviving a boxing show that has been a war casualty for four long years. They conceded a fine start has been made towards the rebuilding of boxing in the upper peninsula by staging intercity matches in Manistique, Sault Ste. Marie and other communities. The Escanaba boxers are eager for this type of activity.

When the Buckeyes won nine straight in 1944 for their first perfect regular season since 1920 and a Big Ten championship, nothing was said about the modest Widdoes being "too shy and retiring." Widdoes suddenly developed that "fault" after Ohio State was shaded in the 1945 finale by Michigan, 7-3, to make it 16 victories in 18 starts in two campaigns.

The Michigan decision couldn't have been drawn much finer, and the truth is that Widdoes turned in an excellent job of reorganizing following the Purdue debacle. In view of the subsequent victories over Minnesota, Northwestern, Pittsburgh and Illinois, it is difficult to see on what ground some of the athletes complained that they had no one around whom to rally.

Orfand, I would say it was a pretty good performance for an outfit going along in the dark without a spark. Conversely of the record it is hard to understand

Star In 440-Yard Comes To U. of M.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 5 (P)—The University of Michigan's recent lack of 440-yard strength on the cinder paths became a thing of the past today with Coach Ken Doherty's announcement that Hugh Short, former Georgetown University star, has enrolled for journalism classes under the GI Bill of Rights.

Doherty said Short, co-holder of the American indoor 600-yard record, will be available for all Wolverine track meets this year after his appearance next Saturday in the Michigan State relays at East Lansing.

A veteran of 19 months in Italy with the 85th Division, 23-year-old Short also holds the ICAAAA 440-yard mark of 47.2 seconds and a high school 880-yard record of 1:58.5. He set the 600-yard record of 1:10.2 in 1942 by defeating Michigan's Bob Ufer at the Millrose games at New York, a record which equalled the mark set in 1941 by John Borian, an AAU club runner.

Publicity Director At MSC Resigns

East Lansing, Feb. 5 (P)—Lloyd H. Geil, publicity director at Michigan State college since 1943, has resigned his position and will join the public relations department of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, President John A. Hannah announced today. He will be replaced by W. Lowell Treaster, M. S. C. extension director since 1943.

Geil was an instructor of journalism at the college from 1935 to 1943.

Ohio Football Coaches Lacking In Security

By HARRY GRAYSON
 NEA Sports Editor

New York, (NEA)—It may have been true that Carroll Widdoes didn't want the post, but the fact remains that not since the days of John W. Wilce has an Ohio State football coach known what security meant.

Talk about Cleveland baseball managers! Sometimes they at least are kicked upstairs. Here is the list of Ohio State gridiron guides, players apparently coaching in the early years unaccounted for:

Jack Ryder	1892
J. B. C. Eckstorn	1893-1903
Albert H. Jones	1907-1909
Howard H. Jones	1910*
Harry Vaughn	1911
John R. Richards	1912
Dr. John W. Wilce	1913-1928
Sam S. Willaman	1929-1933
Francis A. Schmidt	1934-1940
Paul Brown	1941-1943
Carroll C. Widdoes	1944-1945
Paul O. Bixler	1946-

And, like the barber, you are tempted to say "Next!"

Only a year ago Widdoes was toasted throughout the country as "Coach of the Year" in company with his signal-caller, Les Horvath, as "Player of the Year." Believing Paul Brown was headed back to Columbus from the Navy, Cornell and other institutions sought Widdoes' services. A fine instructor of fundamentals, the fellow was credited with developing something new in combining the modern T and single wing.

When the Buckeyes won nine straight in 1944 for their first perfect regular season since 1920 and a Big Ten championship, nothing was said about the modest Widdoes being "too shy and retiring." Widdoes suddenly developed that "fault" after Ohio State was shaded in the 1945 finale by Michigan, 7-3, to make it 16 victories in 18 starts in two campaigns.

The Michigan decision couldn't have been drawn much finer, and the truth is that Widdoes turned in an excellent job of reorganizing following the Purdue debacle. New Rules Erase Tenth Player On Softball Teams

Lansing, Feb. 5 (P)—The new softball rules approved by the National Softball Association in New York last weekend will become effective in state tournaments next season, but the decision on their use in league play will be left to the leagues themselves, Herbert Kipke, state softball commissioner, said today.

Kipke said the new rules would include the elimination of the 10th player on teams and the shortening of the distance between bases, would "open up the game and make for more scoring." He said he believed the teams would quickly approve the rules because they allow more opportunity for players to get on base and give the teams more scoring chances.

Kipke predicted the number of softball teams in the state may approach the pre-war level. This year, there were about 2,000 teams in the state operating in pre-war seasons while only 350 teams registered with the state association last year.

The new rules and plans for the 1946 season will be considered at a meeting of the state association early in March, he said.

Entries For Relays At Michigan State Largest In History

East Lansing, Feb. 5 (P)—A close race in the mile relay event at Saturday's State relays here was promised today with the entry of Notre Dame into the carnival, boosting the entries from 14 mid-western schools to 326, largest in the 24-year history of the annual track and field meet.

Spartan Coach Karl A. Schladehman said that a "very close race" should develop in the mile relay, in which the University of Michigan, Notre Dame and Michigan State will be regarded as favorites.

"Both Notre Dame and Michigan have run the event in 3:29.3 this season and our own time wasn't too much slower than that," the Spartan coach said.

Top attraction of the relays is expected to be the pole vault, where the Spartans' Ted Wonch and Northwestern's Bill Moore are matched. Wonch recently broke Moore's Jensen Fieldhouse record with a leap of 13 feet, 7 1/4 inches.

BURGLARY LOOT IS RECOVERED

Articles Taken In Three Robberies Returned To Police Station

Almost half the cash and practically all of the articles taken in burglaries of three south side homes within the past ten days were found in a paper bag on the porch of the police station here early this week, evidently left there by the conscience-stricken thief or someone acting for him.

A cardboard box within the paper bag left mysteriously at the station contained the 18-karat gold tipped fountain pen taken from the John W. Watson home, 716 South 14th street, late last month; several fountain pens, jackknives and a magnifying glass, loot in the burglary of the Rev. John Anderson home, 524 South 14th street, and a silver locket and chain taken from the home of Richard Trotter, 403 South 14th street, on Jan. 29.

With the loot were $15 in cash, apparently part of the $18 and $15, also taken at the Watson and Trotter homes.

One theory advanced by police is that the burglaries were the work of a juvenile whose parents discovered the loot and arranged for the return of the articles.

Sleeper Service Is Being Restored By C&NW Railway

As the result of Office of Defense Transportation modification of sleeping car regulations, the Chicago & North Western Railway system will restore sleeping car service, effective Feb. 15, on its daily trains operating between many midwestern points, it was announced by F. G. Fitz-Patrick, vice-president in charge of traffic.

Sleeping car service will be restored on the North Western Limited and the Victory, operating overnight between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul, on the Ashland Limited between Chicago, Watersmeet and Ashland, Wis., and on the Iron and Copper Express between Chicago and Ishpeming. Overnight sleeper service between Chicago and Des Moines also will go into effect on Feb. 15.

Other restored sleeper service includes the Nightingale and the Montclair between Minneapolis, St. Paul and Omaha as well as on No. 21 from Omaha to Chadron, Neb., and No. 12 from Chadron to Omaha.

The restoration of this service was made possible through the release by the military of a certain number of sleeping cars which had been engaged in the movement of troops and the delivery by car builders of new troop sleepers.

Striking Woodsmen Resume Wage Talks

Iron River—Another effort was to be made today at Ironwood to negotiate a settlement in the disputes involving Local 15, International (CIO) Woodworkers, and the Connor Land and Lumber company, whose logging operations above Gibbs City and in Gogebic and Ontonagon counties have been strike-bound since a week ago today.

James Greenfield, Lansing, state mediator, and John Luecke, Escanaba, federal conciliator, both of whom agreed that the CIO had called an illegal strike, have drawn up a tentative contract upon which to start negotiations. The contract, provisions of which have not been discussed publicly, is patterned after an old agreement between the union and company which expired last summer.

The company, which last week said it would not participate in negotiations until the men returned to work, will be represented at today's proceedings Greenfield said.

Negotiations were to be opened Saturday, but were postponed when Earl Johnson, Ironwood, told Greenfield and Luecke that he desired committee representatives from each of the three camps to attend. Two of the committee-men were unable to get to Ironwood Saturday, but Johnson assured the mediators that they

Report Squirrels Damage Hardwood Trees Near Nahma

Conservation officers yesterday were investigating a report that squirrels have extensively damaged young hardwood trees in a forty-acre area in the vicinity of Indian Point west of Nahma in Ensign township, according to John Anguilm, district conservation supervisor.

The report to the conservation headquarters office in Escanaba was made by Jules Papineau of Ensign. Indian Point is located about three miles south of St. Jacques, and the principal damage in the hardwood area is along the shore of Bay de Noc.

Paul Chollancin, assistant district supervisor, and Conservation Officer Allen Tweedy of Rapid River have set squirrel traps in the area to conclusively prove the damage is caused by squirrels.

Anguilm described the girdling of the trees as a "phenomena," since squirrels ordinarily do not winter feed on the bark of trees as does the meadow mouse. The conservation department recently reported extensive damage to Lower Michigan orchards by meadow mice.

Perhaps the principal reason for tree-girdling by squirrels is the scarcity of their usual winter food. Acorns, berries and wild cherries were a "short crop" last year and squirrels were unable to lay away enough food to last through the winter.

Rapid River Troop Committee Holds Training Session

The troop committee of Boy Scout troop 465 of Rapid River, held its second training session of its troop committee at the Rapid River school, Monday evening. An election of committee officers was held, following the training session: John Miller, Sr., chairman, Ed Wesen, secretary and treasurer, Leonard Nelson, activities, Rev. Serge Hummorg, training, and Ray Callahan, quartermaster.

In view of the temporary absence of a Scoutmaster for the unit, the troop committee is now leading the troop. On Feb. 10th, the troop, with the aid of its committee will hold a ski hike to Schawee's Lake. The hike will be in connection with the completion of certain achievements of the Scouts, in their preparation for the district court of honor in Gladstone on the 13th of February.

The next meeting of the committee will be held March 4th, at which time a training session on troop board of review will be held.
